FRENCH SOMALI COAST

APPENDED SCHEDULE OF CONSUMPTION DUTIES.

(Official communication of March 25th, 1914.)

No Customs duties whatever are levied in the French Somali Coast, the Colony having been excluded from the so-called "assimilated Colonies." The arrangement concerning Abyssinia signed in London on the 13th Dec. 1906, between France, Great Britain and Italy, prohibits, moreover, the imposition of fiscal transit dues in the Colony.

Goods, wares and merchandise of any origin and nationality may, therefore, be imported into the French Somali Coast free of all Customs duty.

Consumption duties, as per appended Tariff, have been instituted by various Decrees of the Governor, sanctioned by the French Minister of Colonies.

STATISTICAL TAX.

Regulations respecting the collection of a statistical tax approved by Decree of July 6, 1901.

(Journal Official of July 11, 1901.)

ART. 1.—A statistical tax shall be collected in the St. Pierre and Miquelon Islands upon merchandise of every description and origin imported otherwise than in the coasting trade from one port of the Colony to another.

This tax is fixed as follows:

15 centimes per package upon goods in casks, cases, bags or other packages;

15 centimes per 1,000 kilogrammes upon goods in bulk;

15 centimes per head on the following live or dead animals: horses, mules, asses, all bovine, sheep, goats and swine.

Merchandise in bulk, dutiable otherwise than on weight, shall be subject to the statistical tax at the rate of 15 centimes per 1,000 kilogrammes, not to be divisible—payable in full upon any quantity below 1,000 kilogrammes and for any fraction of weight in excess of 1,000 kilogrammes. Payment of the tax will be insisted upon separately for each article whenever a package contains different objects but all put up together in one same wrapper.

In the case of a package of goods of the same description and weighing gross 6 kilogrammes each at the maximum, the tax of 15 centimes shall be applied in respect of each group of five packages. Every fraction of five packages shall be reckoned as one group and liable to the tax in full. Bales and bunnies unwrapped and simply banded by any kind of bands shall be held and taxed as goods in bulk.

ART. 2.—The following are exempt from the statistical tax:

Transmissions of Treasury funds;

Luggage accompanying passengers;

Fresh fish and lobsters;

Objects of every description (except merchandise proper) landed by metropolitan fishing vessels and local schooners;

Supplies, materials and objects of every description imported on account of the State, the local service or Communes;

All French fishery products, as well as salt intended for use in the preparation thereof.

ART. 3.—The tax shall be collected on the Customs liquidation statements.

The same shall be exacted according to the particulars appearing in the declarations of entry vouchered by bills of lading or upon quantities ascertained on examination, the Customs being at liberty to admit the declarations as correct or not.

The liquidation or collection of the statistical tax, and matters arising thereon come under the application of the General Customs Laws.

(1) Very little tobacco is grown in Guadeloupe, but the growers alone prepare it for their own personal use. This product is not to be found in trade in any quantity. Moreover, the raw material of the few cigars manufactured in Guadeloupe consists of foreign tobacco. No cigarettes are made in the colony. Imported cigarettes, cut tobacco and chewing tobacco can therefore be charged with sea-port duty. Cigars and leaf tobacco have been eliminated. The 260 francs duty is the rate applied for by the General Council on July 2 1898.

IMPORT TARIFF OF THE GERMAN CUSTOMS UNION

[In force March 1, 1906.]

[NOTE.—The German Customs Union includes, besides the territory of the German Empire proper, the two Austrian communes of Jungbölz and Mittelberg. The free ports of Hamburg, Cuxhaven, Bremerhaven, and Geestemünde, the Island of Heligoland and a few frontier districts in Baden (Zollanschüsse) are not included in the Union.]

CUSTOMS LAW OF DECEMBER 23, 1902.

§ 1.—With the exception of imports from certain countries, which form the subject of special provisions, goods imported into the German customs territory shall pay the duties finally adopted by the sixteenth commission and laid before the Reichstag on October 6, 1902. In other cases of the following tariff numbers however, the duties shall be otherwise fixed, viz.: No. 808 at 4.50 marks, No. 809 at 7.50 marks, No. 810 at 12 marks, No. 816 at 8 and 12 marks, No. 821 at 8 marks, No. 803 at 4 marks, and No. 906 at 15, 12, 10, 9, 7, 5.50, 4.50, and 3 marks.

In regard to the undenatured cereals, the tariff duties shall not be reduced by way of convention to lower rates than are set forth in the following schedule:

|                       | Marks.          |
|-----------------------|-----------------|
| Rye .....             | 100 kilos. 5.00 |
| Wheat and spelt ..... | 5.50            |
| Malting barley .....  | 4.00            |
| Oats .....            | 5.00            |

Exemptions from and reductions of duty agreed to by convention shall apply to products of German territories not included in the customs territory as such exemptions as the Bundesrath shall see fit to adopt. These decisions shall be communicated to the Reichstag forthwith or at its next session, if not thus assembled, and shall be cancelled in case the Reichstag refuses to sanction same.

Exemptions from and reductions of duty granted by convention may likewise extend to products of German colonies and protectorates with order of the Bundesrath.

Information as to rates of import duty.

§ 2.—An office shall be opened in every tax district, whose duty shall be to supply, on application, information as to the customs rates chargeable on any merchandise or articles imported into the German customs territory.

Gross and net weight.

§ 3.—The duties imposed according to weight will be levied on the gross weight when—

- (a) The tariff so expressly provides, and
- (b) With respect to goods on which the import duty does not exceed 6 marks per 100 kilograms.

In other cases the duties will be levied on net weight. In ascertaining the net weight of liquids, the weight of the receptacles containing them, such as casks, bottles, stoneware vessels, etc., will not be deducted.

The Bundesrath will determine what proportion of gross weight may be deducted by way of tare in assessing the net weight.

Goods imported in casks, receptacles commonly employed in trade are to be admitted free of duty.

In the case of goods dutiable on gross weight but imported without packing or in receptacles not commonly employed in trade, and in the case of liquids imported in immediate receptacles not commonly employed in trade, the Bundesrath may order that the weight of the receptacles commonly used in the trade be added to the net weight of such goods or to the actual weight of said liquids.

Specified custom-houses for clearance of certain goods.

§ 4.—The Bundesrath is authorised to prescribe that the clearance of certain goods, customs examination of which offers special difficulties, be only effected in certain specified custom-houses unless the interested parties are willing to pay the highest duties stipulated in the tariff as a condition so much as to undertake to pay the expenses connected with the conveyance of the goods or samples thereof to the proper custom-house. Goods admitted free of duty.

§ 5.—The following goods are admitted free of duty:

- (a) Articles sent by post from abroad, when the gross weight of such articles does not exceed 250 grams;
- (b) All articles: paying duty according to weight, when such weight is under 1 kilogram.

The Bundesrath will determine to what extent fractions of a kilogram may, in other cases, be disregarded at the time of fixing the weight of the goods.

Duties amounting to less than 5 pfennigs will not be levied, and higher duties only in so far as they are divisible by 5, all surplus pfennigs being neglected.

The Bundesrath may, in case of misuse of the provisions hereof, enact limitations affecting any specified goods or frontier limits.

The exemption may be restricted by the Bundesrath in case of finely-cut tobacco and cigarettes, and also tubes and small sheets of cigarette paper.

§ 6.—The following articles remain free of duty:

1. Agricultural and animal products coming from farms beyond the frontier which are managed from houses and farms within the frontier; also forestry produce when the forest land beyond the frontier has formed part of property within the frontier since at least July 15, 1879.

2. Fish, seals, whales, and other sea animals caught by German fishermen, and by crews of German vessels, as well as products derived from fish and animals.

3. Shellfish caught in foreign territorial waters are excluded from the exemption.

The Bundesrath will enact the necessary prescriptions to secure supervision.

3. Clothing and body linen which have been used and which are not imported for sale or for industrial purposes.

4. Articles of iron, steel, or other metal, intended for their own use; used machines for industrial or agricultural purposes shall, however, be only admitted exceptionally and subject to a special permit.

Under a special permit, new articles making up trousseaus and engagements or wedding presents intended for foreigners or for natives who have more than two years resided abroad, and who, upon their marriage, have more than two years resided abroad, may be admitted. From this exemption are to be excluded foodstuffs and consumable goods, unmanufactured yarns and spun wares, as well as all other products requiring to be worked up; also raw materials of all kinds, and animals. The Chancellor of the Empire may, with the assent of the Bundesrath, order that the benefit of sub-sections 1 and 2 be wholly or partly refused to subjects or citizens of a state which does not grant reciprocal treatment.

5. Used effects proved to have been inherited, subject to a special permit.

6. Serviceable articles of all kinds, whether new or not, imported by travellers, carriers, shipmasters and crews for their own personal use or for the exercise of their profession during the journey, as well as other articles of the kind which precede or follow such persons; also live animals which actors on a trip employ either for the exercise of their profession or for exhibition purposes.

This exemption further extends to trunks, bags, and other used travelling requisites re-entering from a foreign country, if they serve for the transport of passengers' effects abroad.

7. Articles of consumption imported by travellers, including carriers, for their own personal use on the journey, as well as stores for masters of ships and their crews, but in the latter case only in a quantity not exceeding two days' requirements.

The exemption may be restricted by the Bundesrath in case of finely-cut tobacco and cigarettes, and also tubes and small sheets of cigarette paper.

8. Vehicles of all kinds, including their accessories and furnishings exclusively utilized for bringing in persons and goods, and imported solely for the purpose of reimported from abroad after having been used for a like transport outward; also vehicles introduced for the purpose of conveying persons or goods abroad.

Horses and other animals (including their harness and blankets), used for riding, draft, or carrying purposes and which for such purpose only cross the frontier, or come back from abroad after having been used as aforesaid on going out; horses and other animals used for conducting abroad persons, vehicles, or goods.

Vehicles of all kinds as well as horses or other animals belonging to travellers even if at the time of importation they should not be employed as means of transport, subject to proof being furnished that they were previously the property of such persons and are subsequently required for their use.

Vehicles or animals which in the foregoing cases permanently remain in the country become liable to duty.

P fodder required for feeding on the journey, and imported with the animals referred to in sub-sections 2 and 3, in a quantity corresponding to the number of animals and probable length of the journey not to exceed two days.

The Bundesrath will enact special provisions in reference to the treatment of railway cars used for conveying passengers.

9. Wrappers, coverings, and other wrapping materials, including rollers, wooden or cardboard rolls and similar articles imported for use in exporting goods or such wares coming back from abroad if proved to have been used for such purpose. In the former case, evidence of their exportation within a term deemed sufficient will be required and, if useful, payment of the duties guaranteed; these formalities may, however, be dispensed with if the wrapping materials have been previously used and no doubt exists that same are actually intended to be used in the exportation of goods.

10. Simple carls and samples in cuttings or patterns which are only fit to be used as such, except samples of alimentary or consumable articles, but including specimens and samples of coffee, cocoa, sugar, raw tobacco, and dried fruits imported through the post and weighing up to 350 grams.

11. Works of art imported for art exhibitions or for public art institutions or collections; also such other articles as are intended for public institutions or collections for educational or exhibition purposes.

12. Materials necessary for building, repairing, or equipping sea or river vessels with the exception of cabin and galley requisites. This privilege does not apply to pleasure boats for river or lake navigation, which are subject to such special regulations as shall be issued by the Bundesrath.

13. Shields, flags, and other articles sent by foreign Governments to their representatives in Germany for the purpose of the service, provided the respective countries grant reciprocal treatment.

14. Coffins containing corpses and urns containing ashes of cremated bodies, including wreaths and other like articles for ornamenting said coffins and urns or the means of transport thereof.

Customs treatment of waste and damaged goods.

§ 7.—Waste materials not enumerated in the tariff, also damaged and unusable articles shall be treated as the raw materials of which they are made, provided they are unfit for any other use, or are rendered unserviceable by appropriate means taken under orders of the customs.

Dutiable waste materials and damaged goods imported as fertilizers are admitted free of duty, provided their application for any other purpose is not possible, or if they have been excluded on account of other use, by proper means taken by order of the customs. Other damaged goods are free of duty if destroyed under supervision of the administration.

Duty free importation of railway materials.

§ 8.—If by international conventions, railroads are organized, or are to be established, between the German Empire and a neighbouring State, and if the German Government has concluded with the said State a commercial and connecting frontier station in common, the Bundesrath is authorized to grant the duty-free importation to:

1. Materials necessary for building and putting in working order the connecting station and line between the station and the customs frontier, provided the purchase of such materials be incumbent upon the foreign authorities or companies.

2. All articles necessary for the operation of the foreign railroad enterprise, including the maintenance of the railroad station and the line running to the junction, and for the official use of the foreign customs officers.

3. Instruments and articles of functionaries and employees of such foreign railroad administration, and of employees of other branches of the foreign administration who serve within the limits of the German customs union.

Certificates of origin to be required.

§ 9.—On the importation of goods subject to differential tariffs according to the country of origin, the importer shall declare, and if so required shall prove, the country of origin of the goods. The Bundesrath will enact the rules to be complied with in regard to the terms and form of declaration as well as to the furnishing of proof. If the importer fails to fulfil the above conditions the goods shall be treated on the less favoured tariff, without prejudice to any fines and other penalties he may have incurred.

Surtax on goods from States discriminating against German ships or products.

§ 10.—Dutiable goods proceeding from States that treat German ships or products less favourably than those of other nations may, in addition to the duties provided for in the tariff, be burdened with a surtax not exceeding twice the amount of the tariff rate imposed on such goods or exceeding twice the amount of the tariff rate of the goods themselves. Goods free of duty according to the tariff may, under the same conditions, be taxed with a duty not exceeding 60 per cent. ad valorem.

In like manner, and save conventional stipulations to the contrary, foreign goods may be subjected to the same duties and customs formalities as are applied to domestic goods in the country of origin. The necessary measures provided for in this section shall be put in force by imperial ordinance after being approved by the Bundesrath.

Any provisions enacted in the matter shall be communicated to the Reichstag forthwith, or, if not assembled, at its next session. The same shall be cancelled if not assented to by the Reichstag.

Drawback certificate for export of certain agricultural products.

§ 11.—1. Whoever exports from the free circulation of the customs territory rye, wheat, malt, barley, oats, buckwheat, pulse, colza, and rape seeds in a quantity of at least 500 kilograms shall, on demand, be entitled to a warrant (import certificate) authorizing him to import duty-free a quantity of the same products corresponding to the amount of duty represented by the said warrant which is a permit (which in no case can exceed six months) to be fixed by the Bundesrath.

Clearance for the export of above-named products, with application for the necessary import warrants, must be effected through the customs-houses designated by the chief fiscal authorities of the respective States.

Transit depots not placed under customs lock shall be authorized for the above-mentioned goods intended exclusively for sale beyond the customs territory. The goods deposited therein may be handled or re-packed without any restriction or declaration; they may also be mixed with native merchandise, provided that the quantities entered for export with native merchandise do not exceed the stock of foreign goods in store, shall be deducted from the latter; the remainder to be considered as home goods (purely transit depots).

In regard to goods of the above description, partly to be consumed outside the customs territory and partly within the same, similar depots may be allowed if necessary reasons exist. The quantities cleared from such depots for consumption in the customs territory shall be entered as duty-debits being deducted from the warehouse stocks of native goods, provided the former do not exceed these stocks; the remainder to be treated as foreign goods (mixed transit depots). The Bundesrath will designate in what localities the establishment of such depots may be authorized.

Transit depots, not being subject to customs lock, may be authorized in respect of cereals not enumerated above, as well as dutiable oleaginous fruits, in case such products are intended exclusively for sale outside the customs territory. In these depots the merchandise may be handled and packed afresh without any restriction or declaration, or it may be mixed with native goods. If the mixed goods be considered the preparation of foreign goods entering into the mixture shall be considered as the quantity in transit and free of duty. Similar transit depots may be authorized for goods of this kind intended for sale partly outside the customs territory, partly within the same.

2. Purely transit depots, not being jointly locked by the customs shall likewise be authorized, and mixed transit depots may be authorized with the joint lock of the customs, for temporary storage for building or other industrial purposes. The premises need not be enclosed. At certain periods permission will be granted to remove the wood and to return it to the transit depot in a finished state liable to a higher rate of duty as wood for building or other industrial purposes, or under the name of common or coarse woollen wares. The Bundesrath will designate in what localities the establishment of these mixed transit depots may be authorized.

Waste from the working of building and other wood in transit depots shall be entitled to a proportionate reduction of the duties charged to account when the wood is exported outside the customs territory; the amount of this reduction shall be determined by the Bundesrath.

3. Millers or maltsters shall on the exportation of their products receive import warrants for a corresponding quantity of cereals or pulse (see section 1 of this paragraph). The yield of these products which will have to be taken into account shall be determined by the Bundesrath.

4. A drawback may be allowed to owners of oil mills on the exportation of the oil manufactured by them. This drawback shall consist in the remission of the duty payable on the quantity of foreign dutiable oleaginous fruits taken to the mills, and corresponding to the quantity of oil manufactured. The yield of these oleaginous fruit conveyed to the mills under customs pass-ports shall be determined by the Bundesrath.

5. Goods entering a bond warehouse or a private warehouse jointly locked by the customs shall be considered as exports within the meaning of sections 1 to 4.

6. The Bundesrath will enact the necessary measures relating specially to the form of import warrants, the nature of exported goods for which import warrants are applied for, as also the conditions to be complied with by warehouse owners.

It will further issue regulations as to the use of import warrants proportionately to their value in payment of customs duties on goods other than those specified in section 1 of this paragraph, subject to specified conditions.

Credit for payment of duties.

§ 12.—Credit may, on application, be given for the maximum limit of three months, subject to sufficient security being furnished and upon compliance with the regulations framed by the Bundesrath. This credit does not apply to the payment of duty's upon cereals, pulse, colza, and rape seed, or derivatives thereof produced by mill-milling. If such products are deposited in a public bonded warehouse or in a private warehouse (whether the latter be jointly locked by the customs or not), the duties entered for the storage term shall, if the goods enter consumption, bear interest at 4 per cent. for the full term of storage to be fixed by the Bundesrath.

Abolition of local taxes on certain articles of food.

§ 13.—From and after April 1, 1910, no further tax shall be levied on account of the communes or corporations on cereals, pulse, flour, or other milling products or upon bakers' goods, cattle, meat, wine, products, and so forth.

This provision shall not apply to the tax levied by communes on malt intended for brewing purposes.

The provisions to the contrary contained in Section 1 and § 7 of Section II of article 5 of the Customs Union Treaty (Zollvereinungsvertrag) dated July 8, 1867 (Bundes-Gesetzblatt, p. 313), and in the law of May 27, 1885 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 109), amending said treaty, are hereby repealed.

Penalties for violation of this law.

§ 14. Violations of this law or of duly published regulation for its execution shall be liable to a fine not exceeding 150 marks, unless a heavier penalty be incurred under § 11, section 4 (Zollverstoß) and following of the Customs Union Law (Zollvereinsgesetz).

Application of certain customs duties to pension fund.

§ 15.—In case the net proceeds of customs duties on the goods classified under Nos. 1, 2, 102, 103, 105, 107, 107a, and 160 of the tariff (§ 1), calculated per head of inhabitant of the German Empire, exceeds the net proceeds of the same goods calculated on an average for the years 1898 to 1903 per head of inhabitant, such excess shall be applied to the establishment of a pension fund destined for widows and orphans.

The application of the above surplus to the pension fund shall be the subject of a special law. Until such law enters into operation the above surpluses are to be collected and invested at interest on account of the Empire.

In case the said law is not made operative prior to April 1, 1911, the interest on surpluses collected, as well as the accumulated surpluses shall from and after that date be distributed among the different institutions for insurance against invalidity in proportion to the insurance premiums collected by them during the previous year, for the purpose of insuring the widows and orphans of the insured.

The allowance to the several institutions shall be made according to regulations to be approved by the Imperial Insurance Office.

Date of commencement of this law.

§ 16.—The date upon which this law is to enter into force shall be fixed by imperial ordinance, subject to the approbation of the Bundesrath.

From the same date the following shall be deemed repealed: The customs law and tariff of May 24, 1885 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 111); the laws dated April 18, 1886 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 123); December 21, 1887 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 533); April 14, 1894 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 325); May 18, 1895 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 239); March 6, 1896 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 133); July 14, 1900 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 298), (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 133); and the law of May 27, 1885 (Reichs-Gesetzblatt, p. 117). The standing provisions respecting the allotment of part of the proceeds of customs duties and tobacco tax between the States composing the German Empire (§ 8 of the tariff law of May 24, 1885), remain in force until otherwise provided by a special law, save the alteration made by § 15 of the present law.

Decision of the Bundesrath, of January 28, 1910, relating to the payment of "customs export fees."

("Nachrichtensblatt für die Zollverwaltung," No. 7, of 1910.)

1.—Save any provisions to the contrary contained in the Regulations enacted by the Bundesrath, experts' fees for chemical or technical examinations prescribed in a general way or ordered in special cases by the Customs, including expenses of transmission of the goods or samples, shall only be borne by the declarant if the import declaration presented should prove incomplete or inaccurate, and if the experts' examination could have been dispensed with by the production of a complete and proper declaration; in all other cases the experts' fees will be payable by the Treasury.

2.—When the experts' examination is demanded by the declarant, he will have to pay the expense in case the result should not lead to the application of the classification claimed by him.

3.—The experts' fees will always be payable by the declarant in the following cases:—

(a) When he claims special favours to be left to the Customs' discretion.

(b) For experts' examination of doubtful substances.

(c) When the declarant fails to use the certificate admitted as proof of the quality of the goods.

4.—Unless otherwise expressly provided, the expenses connected with the expertise, to be refunded by the declarant, shall only include besides the cash disbursements, the fees due for services rendered by the chemists attached to the Customs department or by other technical officials.

RATES OF IMPORT DUTY.

[NOTE.—All rates are given per 100 kilos, net wet weight, except where otherwise indicated. See also § 3 of Customs Law.]

[NOTE RELATING TO TARS.—The figures appearing opposite the tarses and supplementary tarses represent the percentage to be deducted from the gross weight; those opposite the additional tarses refer to the percentage to be added to the net weight of the goods.—In case the tarses on a specified package vary according to weight, this must be taken to refer to the gross weight of the packages.—If a tariff item is sub-divided into several paragraphs, the tarses appearing at the end of the item apply to the various paragraphs, unless otherwise specially provided as to certain paragraphs or goods.]

[NOTE.—For the Commercial Relations with Canada and the Convention with Haiti, see the list of countries and the customs treatment applicable to goods imported therefrom into Germany, see end of Tariff.]

and to be admitted at the reduced rate of Mks. 1 30 per 100 kilos:

(1) On entering at certain customs stations provided with special authority, barley which, in its pure, unmixed, beardless state, does not reach the weight of 65 kilos per hectolitre, and likewise does not contain more than 30 per cent. of grain of which the weight is 67 kilos per hectolitre or more.

(2) Barley for which the information is available that it is unfitted for the manufacture of malt or that it is not intended for that purpose.

In case the correctness of the ascertainment of the quantity admitted under heading 1 is disputed by the importer, or in case other grounds of doubt as regards the use to which it is to be put arise respecting a consignment presented for clearance on account of its special character, the customs department is only bound to admit the goods in at the reduced rate, if it has previously been rendered unsuitable for use in the manufacture of malt. This can be done at the option of the customs department by grinding, hulling, bruising, or any similar process. It is understood, however, that the application of any such process does not entail any expense to the importer.

| Tare.—Cases, 20; casks, 20; bales, 11. Note 1.—The following close-woven piece (Metecware) goods, wholly or partly of silk, are not treated as tissues for upholstery and tapestry under Nos. 402-403: (a) All black tissues, even when they are furnished with a strip of another color along the selvage, the breadth of which, measured from the edge of the tissue to the inner edge of the strip, is not more than 3 centimetres; (b) all tissues not figured on the Jacquard loom and not woven like gobelins, not more than 123 centimetres broad, and not heavier than 120 grammes per square metre. (Treaty with Switzerland.) Note 2.—The term "Open-woven tissues" (under No. 408) includes, in addition to crapes, only those tissues in which the space between the war threads is as great as, or greater than, the thickness of the threads, and similarly the space between the weft threads is as great as, or greater than, the thickness of the threads. On the other hand, tissues in which such spaces do not occur, or occur only irregularly, in consequence of some defect in the weaving, are not excluded from treatment as close-woven tissues on this account. When thick and thin threads occur at regular intervals in the tissue, the thin threads serve to decide the width of the space. Finally, close-woven tissues in which open-woven strips or leaves occur are to be treated as open-woven tissues. Tissues in which the spaces are completely closed by sizine are treated as close-woven. As close woven tissues are also to be treated, the smooth tiffeta tissues known as "marcelline" and "arsene", when they show at least 35 weft threads to the centimetre. (Treaty with Switzerland.) Note 3.—Handkerchiefs of "habutae" of the above-named description shall not be considered as embroidered, if the embroidery does not, in any direction, cover more than a square of 6 centimetres side. | Notes to Nos. 453 to 457:—  |                              |  |  |                                     |  |
| 1. Tissues other than those enumerated in Nos. 445 to 452—  |                              |  |  |                                     |  |
| Unbleached, dressed, bleached or dyed, with such admixture of horsehair (either from the mane or tail) as gives to the tissues the appearance of stiff material ("Stiefelfelle") similar to those of which patterns were deposited on the signing of the Treaty, even though neither warp nor weft consist entirely of horsehair  | —                            | 45 00                                  |  |                                     |  |
| 2. In the case of tissues which are alternately open and close woven, duty will be calculated upon the average total number of threads. The average total number of threads will be obtained by counting the threads of both warp and weft between any two regularly recurring points in the design, and by reducing the number of threads so obtained to an average per square of 5 millimètres. In the case of tissues with double or twisted threads, the single threads should be counted. No account is taken of fractional parts in establishing the net result of the calculation. (Treaties with Switzerland and Austria-Hungary.)  |                              |  |  |                                     |  |
| 3. Feather-stitch tissues shall also be admitted at the rate of 120 marks, as unbleached feather-stitch tissues, even when only that part of the cotton yarn which is used for the pattern is bleached or dyed, or when occasional warp or weft threads of bleached cotton are woven into the main tissue. In cases of doubt, bleached threads of the latter kind shall not be regarded as "occasional" when their number exceeds 10 in 100 threads of the unbleached warp or weft of the main tissue. Where doubled yarn or twist is used each thread entering into the composition of the same is counted separately. No 5 of the general notes to the fifth section of the General Tariff does not apply to "feather-stitch tissues." (forming the foundation. Appliqued felts and felt manufacturers are treated in the same way.

(c) Applique-embroideries on a foundation material other than silk or half-silk, in which the foundation material is united with muslin or tulle by the annexing upon them of patterns in such a manner that the patterns become visible on the cutting away of the underlying or superimposed material, are not treated as "appliqued tissues" in the sense of Note 8, but are dutiable at the rate of 300 marks per 100 kilos. (Austria-Hungary.)

9. Weavers' heads of yarn, united by plaiting, knotting, or netting to a reel, are dutiable as "trimmings." (c) Except when otherwise provided in the tariff, tissues without needlework, measured into lengths or cut out, are treated as piece goods. (Switzerland.)

10. Spun wares and felts, provided only with simple hems or with occasional seams, are not dutiable as sewn goods, but are subject to a surtax of 15 per cent, in addition to the duty on spun wares.

Sewn or sewn sacks of tissues are subject to the same surtax.

(c) Embroideries, hose tissues and lace, however, provided only with simple hems, or with occasional seams, are neither dutiable as sewn goods nor subject to a surtax.

Open-work hems are also treated as simple hems. (See (f) second paragraph.)

The articles mentioned are considered as presenting only occasional seams when the designs (motifs) of embroidery or lace separately manufactured or parts of such designs are united by needlework.

The presence of openwork or of open spaces in the interior of the design of the lace or embroidery does not involve the treatment of such articles as sewn goods. (Switzerland.)

(f) Handkerchiefs and shawls (chus, foulards, veils) of all kinds, wholly or partly of silk, not entering into the class of lace or embroidery, are subject to a surtax of 15 per cent, in addition to the duty on spun wares, when provided with a simple hem or with occasional seams. (Switzerland.)

The term "Articles with simple hems" is to include also articles with simple openwork hems, forming a half or whole "ladder" (échelle); that is to say, articles which have only one row of openings and clusters of threads, immediately adjoining the seam of the edge, which in such cases is usually doubled over to a considerable width. The openings and the clusters of threads shall be uniform in shape and position, and shall neither be crossed by threads nor interrupted by ornamental figures. It is immaterial whether the openwork is produced in the very process of hemming, by the perforator and needle of the openwork hemming machine, or whether it was previously effected by the omission or extraction of threads. In the case of simple "half-ladder" hems (Halbbüschchen) and demi-échelles the clusters of threads are produced by the stitches fastening the hem, which gather up the threads of the tissue in groups along the seam. In the case of simple "ladder hems" (Genstbüschchen, jours-échelles) of the usual form, there is, in addition, parallel to the hem seam and separated from it by the row of openings, a line of stitches which gather up the same groups of threads, giving rise to the formation of bundles whose direction is identical with that of the threads of the tissue.

The star-shaped stitch formation produced when the hem forms a corner is not to be considered as an ornamentation; any sewing around the edge of the openings in the tissue filled up by spinning, intended only to prevent fraying, is disregarded. On the other hand, openwork hems with zigzag stitch, as also those with perforations ornamented or otherwise not answering to the description given above, are not treated as simple openwork hems. (Switzerland, Austria-Hungary.)

(d) Pocket handkerchiefs, bed and table linen, and handkerchiefs of cotton or of linen, hemp &c. yarn, with hems, which are formed by the mere fact of sewing without folding over the edge of the tissue, or are formed into a comparatively coarse and common strip of closely-sewn tissue by the single or multiple folding over of the edge of any tissue, without thereby presenting any pinking or any kind whatever (including plain openwork hems), or any fancy needlework or other ornamentation, are neither on that account to be dutiable as sewn goods nor to be subject to any surtax. (Austria-Hungary.)

Instead of the duty on sewn goods and of the 15 per cent. surtax referred to at the beginning of this Note, the above-mentioned tissues are only subject to a surtax of 10 per cent. if they are provided either by a simple openwork hem (half or whole "ladder" hem), as above described, with a single row of perforations running parallel with the edge of the tissue in the interior of the tissue and formed in exactly the same way as the simple openwork hem, but without connection with the hem by special stitches. (Austria-Hungary.)

(g) Textile manufactures, on which are embroidered on y letters, even interlaced or ornamented (monograms, ornamented letters &c.), or names, numbers, or similar marks, are not considered as embroideries. (Switzerland, Austria-Hungary.)

In the tariff treatment of pocket handkerchiefs, unimportant embroidered ornaments surrounding the letters, names, numbers, or similar marks, such as plain sprays, arabesques &c. are not regarded as involving the treatment of the articles as embroideries. In cases of doubt, an ornament is regarded as unimportant when the whole surface of the embroidery does not cover an area of more than 6 square centimetres. (Switzerland.)

Except as otherwise provided in the tariff, spun wares cut out or measured into lengths without any sewer, are treated for tariff purposes as piece goods imported by the yard. (Austria-Hungary.)

Spun wares with fringes &c. knotted on the stuff, are not to be considered as sewn.

Spun wares with fringes &c. run through the edges of the tissue and knotted, are conventionally dutiable as spun wares without fringes &c., no account being taken of the nature of the fringes.

Hemmings and sewings, as well as borders of ribbon and ordinary accessories for wear, shall not affect the classification of knitted and netted tissues and knitted articles (hosiery).

11. If the clothing or wearing apparel, millinery, and other sewn articles of spun wares are combined with metallic threads (wire or tinsel) they shall be liable to a surtax of 15 per cent. (Conventionally 74 per cent.)

12. Articles made of textile materials and not specially mentioned in this tariff, manufactured otherwise than by sewing, will be subject to duty as sewn articles. Textiles, with or without needlework, covered with other materials, will be subject to the same treatment, so far as they are not specially mentioned in the tariff, and do not become subject to higher rates of duty by reason of such combination.

Stuffed beds, cushions, mattresses, bolsters &c. for beds, also pallases, covered with spun wares, pay the duty leviable on sewn articles of the covering material as regards one-third of their weight, the remaining two-thirds being allowed for the stuffing, and paying the duty leviable thereon or being exempted. Other upholstered or stuffed cushions without framework, covered with spun wares and weighing more than 2 kilos, are treated in the same way.

If glass, porcelain, or metal buttons, glass thread, whalebone, strips, and the like are woven or knitted into spun wares, the tariff treatment of the spun wares is not affected thereby. (Switzerland.)

13. Yarns and spun wares of cellulose and other similar materials (except artificial silk) shall be treated as the yarns or spun wares which they imitate.

14. Non-anealed (seasoned) incandescent bodies of all kinds for incandescent gas, spirit or paraffin lamps and for all other similar incandescent lamps, shall pay the internal revenue tax, in addition to customs duty.

Note.—Of the foregoing wares, enumerated in No. 880, and composed of copper alloys, other than brass and tombac, not only those which are polished, nickelled, colored, lacquered, or varnished, will be treated as "fine wares," but also (and more especially) those which are chased, engine-turned, incised, engraved, etched, blind, or artistically painted. Wares to which the ornamental effects have been imparted simply by punch, stamping, or casting (and not by some subsequent labour process, such as chasing, &c.), will, as a rule, be tariffed at the rate of 30 marks per 100 kilos, and they will not be treated as "fine wares," unless they are ornamented to such an extent as to give them the character of "trinkets and articles of adornment and luxury." (Treaty with Austria-Hungary.)

Note to Nos. 878 and 880.—The definition of the term "sheet" ("blech"), as given in General Note I to Base Metals and Manufactures of Sections B to H, of the General Tariff, does not conventionally apply to copper foil, brass foil, or the foil of any other copper alloy than brass. In fact, sheets of copper or of copper alloy of less than 0.25 millimetre in thickness are not to be tariffed under Nos. 878 and 880 as copper foil, brass foil, or metal foil, unless they are in the form of tinsel, or have otherwise been hammered or rolled into thin paper-like leaves. The distinction between metal foil and genuine gold and silver leaf is not touched by the foregoing. (Treaty with Austria-Hungary.)

Note to Section G.—Common metals and alloys of common metals, not otherwise mentioned in the tariff, intended for the manufacture of metal wares as well as wares of such metals and alloys, will be classed as copper and copper wares. (Concluded by treaty with Austria-Hungary.)

|  |                              |  | By virtue of the Law dated December 13, 1909, concerning the commercial relations with the British Empire, the Bundesrath, at its sitting of the 24th February, 1910, decided that Canadian products coming under Nos. 2, 3, 4, 18, 13, 17, 18, 76, 83, 100, 103, 104, 108, 123, 126, 162, 201, 219, 316, 319, 350, 548, 556, 650, 651 of the General Tariff are to enjoy the most-favoured-nation treatment, from and after the 1st March, 1910. |                              |  |
|  |                              |  | From the same date, the Canadian products which the "Repertoire of the Customs Tariff" classifies under the above cited numbers will receive the full benefit of all reductions or exemptions accorded under existing Commercial Treaties.  |                              |  |

The application of the conventional rates implies all the other advantages connected therewith in reference to clearance (for instance, the reduction of additional duties). On the other hand, all Canadian products coming under some other tariff number will be cleared at the rates and subject to the rules of the General Tariff.

I.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

§ 1.—All merchandise imported into the Protectorate, by sea or exported therefrom, shall be liable to the import and export duties appearing in the Tariff (1), unless included in the exceptions hereinafter provided. Goods which, under a transit pass, are forwarded to or come from the interior of the country shall be subject, in addition to the conventional import or export duties, to the conventional transit duty.

§ 2.—The rules to be complied with for the assessment of goods are those in force at the sea Customs-houses of China. The Customs control, when necessary, is exercised by Customs officials. Manifests must be signed by the Master under his responsibility, and in this respect the Agents of the ship shall be qualified to act for him.

In regard to the production of import and export manifests to the Customs, the provisions contained in the Treaties are to be complied with.

II.—FREE DISTRICT.

§ 3.—The account of duties for incoming ships must be closed ten days after their clearance upwards, and the duties applicable to all imported goods going out of the free district must be paid.

§ 4.—Persons proposing to warehouse, sort or work up within the free district goods arriving by sea or from inland, shall declare them to the Customs with the view of obtaining their control, and furnish the following information: Description of conveyance and, in the case of ships, their name, consignee's name and address, date of arrival, number of packages, nature of packing, marks and numbers, and also the general designation of the goods.

§ 5.—Goods intended to be exported by sea from the free district shall pass through the Customs station, and no merchandise is allowed to be accepted on bond unless accompanied by a Customs pass.

III.—DUTY-FREE IMPORTS.

§ 6.—Goods exempted under Treaties shall not be liable to any duty. The under-mentioned articles are free:

a. Machines and machinery, also tools and implements necessary for factories and industrial or agricultural establishments, and parts thereof; further, building materials, and installations for public or fiscal institutions. In each case, it will be necessary to produce to the Customs a declaration in writing stating the value of the goods and certifying that the articles in question are solely required for use in the Protectorate. If they are afterwards forwarded to China notice must be given to the Customs and duty be paid, failing which double duty will be payable on the value set in the declaration.

b. The traffic of ordinary repair between the free district and the Customs territory; in each case, notice must be given to the Customs.

c. Postal parcels intended for private use in the Protectorate, if the duty payable, according to the Customs declaration annexed, does not exceed $1 (for a value of $20); the Customs are authorised to check the declarations and the contents of the packages if they deem fit to do so.

d. The assessors' personal luggage are free of duty on production of a declaration that they do not contain dutiable or contraband goods, and, as a general rule, are not subject to the formality of examination. The Customs are, however, at liberty to inspect the luggage, if this step appears to them particularly necessary. If the personal luggage contains articles exceeding the quantity which may be reasonably included under that denomination or are intended for sale, the articles shall be liable to duty.

IV.—PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED IN THE PROTECTORATE.

§ 7.—Products manufactured in the Protectorate are only liable to duty if China is authorised to levy duty on the raw material used in their manufacture.

a. Chinese raw materials imported into the Protectorate from non-open ports or the Hinterland to be worked up may be declared at the Customs, on deposit of a bond for any duty that may be payable.

b. At the time of exportation of the products manufactured from said raw materials, the export duty shall be levied on the raw material and deducted from the quantity stated in the bond.

c. The duties guaranteed by the bond shall be paid within three years from the time when it was lodged unless other evidence is produced to the Customs.

d. If desired, the whole duty may be paid on the manufactured product and not on the raw material.

e. Import duties and coasting-trade fees chargeable on raw materials coming from abroad or from open Chinese ports shall be refunded at the time when the products manufactured with such raw materials are exported by sea, provided that at the time of importation, the raw materials were declared to the Customs as destined to be manufactured.

f. As soon as the exportation of the various manufactured products commences, the ratio between the raw material and the manufactured product shall be determined by the Government concurrently with the Customs and the export duty shall be reduced accordingly.

g. There shall be drawn up a list of the factories entitled to this Customs treatment; this list shall be addressed to the Customs with any additions thereto.

V.—OPIMUM.

§ 8.—Opium can only be imported in original chests; the importation of smaller quantities is forbidden. § 15.—The Post office shall, immediately after arrival, hand the parcels to the Customs for the purpose of clearance. The documents accompanying these parcels shall be delivered to the addressee in the case of ordinary letters. The addressee will have to remove the parcels from the Customs-house by means of such documents after paying the duties payable (see § 12). Parcels destined to other places of the Protectorate where Post offices exist, may, on application of the addressee, be cleared by the Post office, which shall collect a tax of 20 cents, in addition to the duties payable.

§ 16.—Opium, arms, gunpowder, explosives and like products, as well as articles for manufacturing the same are prohibited to be imported. The Government shall, however, have the power to permit such importation in special cases.

IMPORT TARIFF

The commercial language of Greece is French.

MONEY, WEIGHTS AND MEASURES EMPLOYED IN THE TARIFF.

Money: Drachmas = 100 lepta.

The currency drachma is worth about 6d. but varies.

Weights and Measures: Oke = 28 lbs., avoirdupois = 1.280 kil.—Dramion = 0.111 ounce = 1/10032 kil.—Oke of capacity = 2.54 pints = 1.316 litre.

Note.—The duties are payable in metallic money, and in the payments by banknotes; drachmas being the level for each drachma in coin, whether under the General Tariff or the Conventional Tariff. (Law of March 17th, 1901.) This rate of exchange is subject to constant alteration by the Minister of Finance.

Note.—The letters n. o. m. and n. s. m. mean "not otherwise mentioned" or "not separately mentioned."

The duties of the Conventional Tariff result from: (a) The Arrangement concluded with Great Britain in relation to Customs. (b) The Commercial Convention concluded with Germany. (c) The Commercial Agreement entered into with France and (d) The Treaty of Commerce and Navigation concluded with Turkey.

In addition to the conventional duties proper, Greece has accorded other reduced rates both in favour of the above-named countries and of other nations entitled to the most favoured treatment, viz.: (e) United States of America, the Hanseatic Towns, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Denmark, Italy, the Netherlands, Persia, Russia, Sweden and Switzerland.

Art. 17.—In extraordinary circumstances or whenever the interests of trade and industry make it desirable, the duty fixed by the tariff may be reduced or annulled by Royal Decree.

This Decree must be submitted to the States-General within thirty days after the opening of their next session, unless it should be made while they are assembled.

In the latter case their approval must be asked within thirty days after the date of the decree.

Law of May 27, 1907, containing provisions respecting the levying of import duty on goods exported to undergo a process of manufacture or preparation abroad and reimported afterwards.

Art. 1.—For goods, free of excise duty and to be designated by our Minister of Finance, which are sent abroad to undergo a process of manufacture or preparation, and which are afterwards reimported, import duty shall only be levied on the amount by which their value by the time it is increased, provided the conditions made by the minister to establish their identity and their value when exported are complied with.

Art. 2.—On reimportation of the goods concerned the importer shall enter them at the office of the collector of import duties in accordance with article 120 of the General Law of August 26, 1822, but he shall not be bound to state the value.

The increased value of these goods is fixed, if necessary, after hearing the importer, by the inspector of import duties at the place of discharge where the entry referred to in the preceding paragraph was made; should no inspector be established there, the collector shall take his place.

Art. 3.—In case the importer feels himself aggrieved with the valuation made in accordance with the preceding article, he can appeal, at latest on the eighth working day after that on which the fixed increased value has been communicated to him, to the examining committee referred to by article 17 of the Valuation Law 1896, whose members are appointed by the director of import duties, within whose district the entry was made, in accordance with article 18 of the aforesaid law.

Art. 4.—The decision of the committee is applied for by filing a petition at the office of the collector referred to in article 2.

As regards the lodging of the petition, article 16 of the aforesaid valuation law applies.

Art. 6.—Pending the decision of the committee the goods are placed in the care of the collector; they can, however, be handed over to the importer in the manner prescribed by article 19 of the aforesaid Valuation Law.

Art. 7.—As soon as the increased value has been irrevocably fixed and the duty which is owing has been paid, the goods shall be at the disposal of the importer.

In case the latter fails to dispose of them within three months after the time at which he could do so, they are considered as having been given up to the administration in the manner as prescribed by article 117 of the aforesaid General Law.

Should the importer not have paid the duty owing under the present law within three months after the increased value has been irrevocably fixed, it shall be recovered from the security given. If no security has been given the goods shall be sold by the administration to make good what is due and the net proceeds accounted for to the state on account of the amount due.

In case the net proceeds exceed the amount owing, the excess shall devolve on the state if not claimed by the importer within two years after the sale.

(*) If used for smokeless gunpowder, and for the chemical washing of articles of clothing and knitted and woven stuffs this article can be exempted from import duty.

For acetic ether which at a temperature of 15° C. contains more than 5 litres of pure alcohol per hectolitre, the import duty of 1 florin 90 cents shall only be calculated on the quantity of pure acetic acid contained in the liquid. The import duty calculated in this manner shall be increased by the amount which would be payable as import and excise duties on the liquid if regarded as a distilled product.

(1) See for exemption from excise duty No. 238

(2) The quantity is calculated after reduction to the strength of 50 % according to the excise law. In addition to the import duty, excise has to be paid on the excise duties (see hereof).

(3) Metal or iron cannon, made useless by breaking of the tampons or otherwise, are exempted, being considered as old iron or as old brass.

(4) Cellanholz is a highly concentrated solution of nitrocellulose and camphor (celluloid) in almost equal proportions of alcohol and ether, to which is added a little plaster and cast. It is used in boot factories.

Sail cloth of every description is free from import duty.

EXCISE-DUES LEVIED IN HOLLAND UPON FOREIGN GOODS.

Salt.

The excise amounts to fl. 3 per 100 kilos, of raw salt (Art. 1 of the law of September 27, 1892).

Refined salt is not chargeable with excise, but with import duty. Salt used in paper factories for the manufacture of paper pulp has been exempted from excise duty in the Netherlands.

(1) The tare is 18 % for ordinary cases of 38 kilos and more, and 25 % for ordinary cases of less weight.

(2) The quantity is calculated after reduction to the strength of 50 % according to the excise laws. In addition to the import duty, excise has to be paid (see end of tariff).

Zapon varnish is exempted from import duty.

(3) Acetate of sodium and acetate of calcium can be exempted from import duty if required in the work of dyeing and printing textile fabrics.

(4) Exclusive of the special duty for gold and silverware.

(5) If imported in bottles containing 7 or more litres, the duty is fl. 0.04 per bottle.

(6) The quantity is calculated after reduction to the strength of 50 % according to the excise-laws; in addition to the import-duty, excise has to be paid.

(7) Gold and silver wire, manufactured with silk, belong to the article "Braid" (see under Manufactures &c.).

(8) Parts of ships, not fit for other use, are free from import duty.

Salt of a finer and whiter nature than the standard fixed by the Minister of Finance shall on importation be considered and taxed as refined salt.

In virtue of article 71 of the law of September 27, 1892, exemption from excise can be granted to salt, required for:

a. sea fisheries; b. salting of fish; c. manufactures and trading establishments; d. manuring lands; e. feeding cattle; f. thawing the rails on railways and clearing public thoroughfares; g. machines intended for transit; h. file factories; i. manufactures of zinc chloride rendered abroad unfit for use as human food.

Subject to compliance with the regulations enacted by Royal Decree, dated August 19, 1898, salt shall be admitted free of excise when for use in: Factories for making extracts from plants or parts of plants; factories or industries for preserving bones from corruption; factories or industries for purifying water required for feeding steam boilers.

Spirits (†).

Under this heading are included besides unmixed alcoholic liquids, obtainable by distillation:

a. liquors, bitters and other similar distilled drinks;
b. perfumed waters, varnish, and all other liquids prepared from alcohol, not being drinks, and containing more than five litres of pure alcohol per hectolitre at the temperature of 15° C.

The excise amounts to fl. 63.00 per hectolitre, containing fifty litres of pure alcohol at the temperature of 15° C. (°). The excise for liquids of greater or less strength is calculated in proportion.

Foreign sweetened liquors, likewise all beverages, distilled or prepared from distilled liquids, which are imported in bottles or jars of less than 2 litres, are considered to contain 75 % of pure alcohol. If however a greater strength is ascertained by the officers, the excise shall be calculated according to the real strength.

Perfumed waters, varnish and other similar liquids imported from abroad, are considered to have a strength of 90 %. If however a greater strength is ascertained by the officers, the excise shall be calculated according to the real strength. Except for the perfumed waters, the importer has, however, the right to cause the real strength to be ascertained and the excise to be calculated according to that strength by the Customs-officers specially designed to that effect; provided that the liquid be imported in quantities of at least 2 hectolitres in casks or bottles of at least 25 litres.

The two preceding alines are applicable for calculation of the import duty. In addition to the excise, import duty has to be paid.

Sugar (†).

| The excise amounts for:  |        |
| a. sugar candy of a quality not inferior to the standard example to be fixed by the Minister of Finance, 100 ktl. | Fl. 28 |

(†) In virtue of Section 1a of the Act of July 18, 1901, exemption from excise duty can be granted for spirits not intended for use as drinks.

(*) The Law of Dec. 4, 1909, raises this duty to fl. 90.00 per hectolitre, containing fifty litres of pure alcohol.

(†) The special import duty (conventional duty) for sugar imported from the countries mentioned below is per 100 ktl.:

Regulations for ascertaining the origin of sugar are contained in the Royal Decrees of October 7, 1913, and of May 6, 1905.

The certificates of origin for sugar refined in Great Britain must contain the statement that no portion of the sugar originates from a country which the Permanent Commission has declared to be a country which grants bounties on the preparation or on the export of sugar. Failing such a statement the highest special import duty is due.

Duty.
Fl. C.

If the factor of purity of these fluids exceeds 68, the excise duty is increased by fl. 0.36 for each unit above 68; fractions of a unit are left out of consideration.

f. Glucose from amylin: solid graduy sugar and castor sugar, as also rasped or massed, refined down in any other way.

For quantities of more or less than 100 kilos, the excise shall be calculated in proportion thereto, with this understanding that decimals of a kilo, shall be regarded as whole kilos.

Under richness shall be understood:

a. with regard to raw sugar, the percentage indicated by polarization, diminished by twice the percentage of glucose found in the sugar and four times the percentage of ash remaining upon burning the sugar after removing the insoluble substances.

b. with regard to bastard-sugar the percentage indicated by polarization. Decimals of percentages of richness of sugar testing not more than 94 % shall be disregarded.

On importation at any other than the landing-places or offices, to be specially indicated by Royal Decree, the highest excise fixed for each kind of sugar mentioned under letters c. and e. shall become due on the sugar and saccharine fluids (Art. 1 and 1 of the law of January 23, 1897, modified by the law of July 24, 1903).

In virtue of article 88 § 2 of the Sugar Act (Law of January 29, 1897), exemption from excise can be granted to molasses and other saccharine fluids imported for distilling purposes.

In virtue of article 1 of the law of December 31, 1908, exemption from excise duty can be granted for sugar not intended for human food (†).

Wine.

By the word "wine" are understood all fermented drinks, wholly or partly prepared from the juice or the extracts of grapes, raisins, dried currants, and other fresh or dried fruits. By the word "fruits" are also understood currants, gooseberries, bilberries, and raspberries. Fluid lees and sediments are also taken as wine, also unfermented juices or extracts of the fruits above mentioned, adapted to make, mix with, or dilute wine.

Fermented or unfermented drinks prepared in the country from fresh fruits, excepting grapes, are exempted from excise duty. The excise amounts to fl. 20.00 per hectolitre. Wine containing more than 22 litres of alcohol to the hectolitre, at the temperature of 15° C., shall, on importation, be considered as spirits and dutiable as such. At the time of importation and conveyance in transit, whether direct or after warehousing, said wine must, in accordance with Art. 120 of the General Law of Aug. 26, 1822, be designated in the declaration as spirits under penalty of being held to be declared under a false description.

Should the wine contain more than 21 but not more than 22 litres of alcohol to the hectolitre at the temperature aforesaid, there shall be levied on the quantity of alcohol exceeding 21 litres, in addition to excise dues on the wine, the duty applicable to distilled products.

In virtue of article 7 of the law of July 22, 1898, exemption from excise duty is granted for wine used for manufacturing cognac, under the precautions against abuse, stipulated by the Royal Decree of December 5, 1901 (†).

Cattle Food.

Cattle food hereinafter specified may be imported from abroad free of excise due:

Molastella, consisting of about 66 parts of molasses, and Molaenat, consisting of about 25 parts of molasses, of which the poteness factor does not exceed 68, and of copra meal.

Molasses and other juices containing saccharose, imported for the manufacture of products distilled in the Netherlands, will be admitted free of excise, subject to compliance with certain conditions.

"Pommes," being horse-food consisting of about 40 parts of molasses, of which the poteness factor does not exceed 68, and of potato and linseed-meal constituents.

VALUATION LAW OF APRIL 20, 1895, CONTAINING FURTHER PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE LEVYING OF AD VALOREM IMPORT DUTIES, AS MODIFIED BY THE LAW OF JULY 9, 1906.

§ A.—Increased valuation—Appeal.

ART. 1.—Whenever at the inspection of goods subject to an ad valorem duty the official charged with that inspection consider the declared value of the whole consignment or of any separately declared portions of it too low, they shall, if desired in writing, give notice thereof to the importer or his assistant, or to the person who offers the goods for inspection.

They may fix for these goods a higher value, which shall be notified to the importer by leaving for him a statement in writing at the office of the collector where the entry was made. That statement must be left not less than 24 and not more than 48 hours after the aforesaid notice. Sundays not included.

The Inspector of Import duties or his deputy, at the request in writing of the importer, may extend these periods with six times 24 hours, or shorten the first mentioned period.

So long as the statement has not been deposited, the importer may increase the declared value to an amount which is considered sufficient by the inspector or his deputy; the offer to increase the declared value must take place in writing and in two copies. One of these copies shall be returned to the importer when the decision has been marked thereon.

In case it appears to the officials, before the statement is deposited, that the declared value was not too low, the inspector or his deputy may authorize the goods being immediately placed at the disposal of the importer.

(†) In virtue of decision No. 81 of July 23, 1901, exemption from excise duty can be granted for molasses intended for feeding cattle.

(‡) By the Law of July 12, 1908, the present law is completed by the addition of Article 74a, whereby the Government has the right to grant exemption from excise duty for wine entering distilleries of the 1st class, in conformity with Art. 7 letter a of the law of June 23, 1862, for use in the manufacture of distilled drinks for export abroad.

Art. 2.—At the request of the importer the inspector or his deputy may petition at the collector's office, at which the entry was made, at the latest on the eighth working day after that on which the statement mentioned in Article 1 was deposited, or on which, in the case of Article 2, the decision of the inspector or his deputy was sent to the importer.

If patterns, samples, or specimens of the goods were taken, or if descriptions or drawings were made in accordance with Article 10, then should the importer desire it in his petition, the consideration of the matter shall be deferred until the termination of a period stated by him, not exceeding three months from the date of the petition.

Art. 15.—The appeal mentioned in Article 4, shall be lodged by the chairman of the Committee at the latest on the third, and by the importer at the latest on the eighth working day from that on which the notice of the decision of the Committee was sent to the importer.

The lodging of the appeal is effected by a notice in writing to the chairman of the Council, and if it is lodged by the importer, also by a notice in writing at the office of the collector, at which the entry was made.

Art. 16. All objections or petitions are rendered void by exceeding the time-limits or by acting in any way contrary to the provisions respecting the filing of the petition or of the notice of appeal.

No decision shall take effect so long as it can still be opposed.

All notices or communications prescribed in this Law shall be effected—unless any other provision is made—by means of registered letters or against dated acknowledgments of receipt. The date of the acknowledgment or of the registration shall be considered as the date of the notice or communication.

§ E.—Relates to constitution and procedure of the examining Committees and of the Council of Appeal.

§ B.—CONSEQUENCES OF INCREASED VALUATION.

Art. 5.—In case the declared value is increased in accordance with the fourth paragraph of Article 1, the importer shall pay, in addition to the import duty on the amount to which the declared value has been raised, a penalty of five times the duty calculated on the difference between the true amount and the value originally declared.

Art. 6.—The importer shall pay, in addition to the duty on the value fixed by the inspecting officials, the inspector or his deputy, the Council by the inspecting officials, the inspector or his deputy, the Council by the inspecting officials, a penalty of ten times the duty calculated on the difference between that value and the declared value.

Art. 7.—If, in the case referred to in the fourth paragraph of Article 1, an increased declaration of value was considered to be insufficient, or if notwithstanding this the value fixed by final decision does not exceed that amount, the importer shall pay, in addition to the duty on the value thus fixed, a penalty of five times the duty calculated on the difference between that value and the value originally declared.

§ C.—SPECIFICATION OF GOODS AND CONSEQUENCES ARISING THEREFROM, WAREHOUSING, DELIVERY, &c.

Art. 8.—After the notice mentioned in the first paragraph of Article 1 has been given, the officials shall place the goods in the care of the collector at whose office the entry was made, and a specification thereof shall be drawn up before him or his deputy. The importer or his representative is allowed to be present when this specification is drawn up.

The inspector, or his deputy, whenever necessary, may use it if desirable. He may direct that the specification shall not be drawn up, or that it shall be drawn up in a particular form. The importer shall cause the goods to be unpacked, and the specification is made. In case of refusal to comply, the specification shall be done at the cost and risk of the importer.

Art. 9.—If, on preparing the specification, it is found that the nature of the goods has been incorrectly declared, the provisions of the present Law shall not apply, and Article 213 of the General Law of August 26, 1822, shall take effect.

If, before or after depositing the statement referred to in Article 1, a larger quantity of goods than mentioned in the entry is found, the Articles 214 and 215 of the aforesaid General Law shall not take effect, but—in addition to the penalty according to Article 6 or 7—there shall be payable on account of concealment a sum of twenty times the value of the goods calculated on the difference between the definitely fixed value of the quantity found, and the declared value.

If more or less is found after the officials have deposited the statement referred to in Article 1, a fresh valuation shall be made. This valuation shall be notified to the importer by a statement as referred to in Article 1. The period therein described shall however not apply to this case. The officials shall notify to the importer that the statement has been deposited.

Art. 10.—The goods may, if desired, be given up at once to the importer, on his giving such security as the collector may approve, provided that:

- There is no dispute between the officials and the importer as to the quantity of the goods;
  - In the opinion of the inspector or his deputy, the value can be established by means of patterns or samples which may be retained, or by descriptions or drawings;
  - These patterns, samples, descriptions or drawings are marked by the officials and the importer.
- The inspector or his deputy may also allow that instead of patterns or samples of all the goods, one or more marked articles are retained as specimens, provided that the officials and the importer have agreed in writing as to the relation between the value of the articles retained as specimens and that of the other.

If patterns, samples, or specimens are accepted on this footing or descriptions or drawings are agreed on, the examining Committee and the Council of Appeal shall fix the value of the goods according to those patterns, descriptions, or drawings, with due observance of the relation referred to in the preceding paragraph.

The retention of patterns, samples, or specimens, or the agreement to descriptions or drawings may, with the approval of the inspector or his deputy, be substituted by the undertaking in writing of the importer to produce the goods on demand to the examining Committee, to the Council of Appeal, or to the members of one of those bodies, as also to the experts appointed by either of them.

Failure to produce on first demand shall entail the disallowance of the protest or of the appeal of the importer and, in case the chairman of the Committee appealed, the value fixed by the officials or by the inspector or his deputy according to Article 1 or Article 2, shall be maintained unless the Committee has fixed a higher amount, which in that case shall prevail. The same course will be followed if, in applying the preceding paragraph, the identity of the merchandise is not established to the satisfaction of the Committee or of the Council.

Art. 11.—By paying the import duty and the penalty the importer forfeits all claim to object to the value that has been fixed.

Art. 12.—As soon as the value has been irrevocably fixed, and the amount due under the present law has been paid, the goods which are in the care of the collector shall be at the disposal of the administration on the footing of Article 117 of the aforesaid General Law, if the importer has failed to dispose of them within three months after he could do so.

§ D.—TIME LIMITS, NOTICES.

Art. 13.—The decision of the inspector or his deputy, referred to in Article 2, shall be applied for by filing a petition at the latest on the third working day after that on which the statement referred to in Article 1 was deposited.

Art. 14.—The decision of the Committee shall be applied for by filing a petition at the collector's office, at which the entry was made, at the latest on the eighth working day after that on which the statement mentioned in Article 1 was deposited, or on which, in the case of Article 2, the decision of the inspector or his deputy was sent to the importer.

If patterns, samples, or specimens of the goods were taken, or if descriptions or drawings were made in accordance with Article 10, then should the importer desire it in his petition, the consideration of the matter shall be deferred until the termination of a period stated by him, not exceeding three months from the date of the petition.

Art. 15.—The appeal mentioned in Article 4, shall be lodged by the chairman of the Committee at the latest on the third, and by the importer at the latest on the eighth working day from that on which the notice of the decision of the Committee was sent to the importer.

The lodging of the appeal is effected by a notice in writing to the chairman of the Council, and if it is lodged by the importer, also by a notice in writing at the office of the collector, at which the entry was made.

Art. 16. All objections or petitions are rendered void by exceeding the time-limits or by acting in any way contrary to the provisions respecting the filing of the petition or of the notice of appeal.

No decision shall take effect so long as it can still be opposed.

All notices or communications prescribed in this Law shall be effected—unless any other provision is made—by means of registered letters or against dated acknowledgments of receipt. The date of the acknowledgment or of the registration shall be considered as the date of the notice or communication.

§ F.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Art. 27.—If the examining Committee fix the value of the goods at a higher amount than that declared in the entry, the importer, if he has not appealed from this decision, shall pay to the State costs amounting to half the duty on the difference between the declared and the increased value, but the minimum payable shall be fifty cents.

If, on appeal of the importer, the Council fix the value of the goods at a higher amount than that declared in the entry, the aforesaid costs shall amount to the full duty on the difference between the declared and the increased value, but the minimum payable shall be one florin.

Art. 28.—In case the importer has not paid what is due under this Law within three months from the date on which the value has been fixed, interest shall be recovered from the security given, if no security has been given the amount due shall be recovered by the administration selling the goods, the net proceeds being accounted for to the State on account of the amount owing.

If the net amount realised by the sale exceeds the amount due, the excess shall belong to the State, unless the importer has claimed it within two years after the sale.

Art. 29.—When articles liable to duty are found among the baggage of travellers, and the inspecting officials are not satisfied with the declared value, the importer may increase this value to an amount to be fixed by them.

If the importer does not avail himself of this privilege, then, contrary to Article 1, the officials shall after inspection at once decide as to the increased value. They shall hand to the importer a written note thereof, which for the purposes of this law shall take the place of the statement referred to in the aforesaid Article 1.

Art. 30.—The above provisions do not apply to goods the value whereof is declared in accordance with the price list published according to Article 123 of the aforesaid General Law.

These provisions shall not be applicable to goods entered for transit or for warehousing. If, on the entry of such goods, there is a dispute between the inspecting officials and the importer as to the value, the inspector or his deputy shall decide.

Relinquishment of transit with a transit-pass can be allowed only after a fresh entry at a place of unloading, or at an office appointed for paying import duties, where the importer is, however, not bound to the value stated under the transit-pass. In this case the provision of the General Law as to the value of the goods shall apply just as if the goods on importation were entered for home use. The transit-pass shall not be cleared until after further inspection of the goods.

Art. 31.—The documents to be drawn up or issued in virtue of this Law, are free of stamp duty and of the formality of registration.

Art. 32.—The two following paragraphs shall be appended to Article 120 of the aforesaid General Law after 69.

"The current price of the goods in this country shall be understood to be the sum which is considered chargeable on the day of the entry for delivery in this country by the first hand in the foreign country, less the import duty according to the tariff. As regards goods to which the above provision cannot be applied, including such goods as from their nature, destination, or marks are of less value to others than to those for whom they are intended, the value shall be fixed at the price of purchase from the first hand at the place of origin, plus the cost of packing, transport, insurance and commission; whilst for separate portions of goods, not in themselves constituting articles of trade, the value shall be fixed in proportion to the price of the whole article to which they are considered to belong.

"The Minister of Finance is empowered to make regulations as to the form of the bill of entry after having obtained the opinion of the Council on the subject."

The following paragraph of Article 123 of the same law is repealed.

The following shall be added to the first paragraph of Article 192 of the same law:

"When goods liable to ad valorem duties and entered for importation are inspected, the importer shall unpack the goods on demand of the officials, and produce those which are separately mentioned in the entry together and apart from other goods. In case of non-compliance with any of these obligations, the officials may see to their being carried out at the cost and the risk of the importer."

"The following shall be added to Article 215 of the same law: "The aforesaid amount of one twelfth part is fixed to one twentieth part for goods liable to ad valorem duties and entered for importation."

Chapter 12 of the same law and Article 6 of the law of December 28, 1879, are repealed.

(1) This price list has been discontinued since January 1, 1901.

Art. 33.—The officials of the import duties and the members of the examining Committee and of the Council of Appeal shall not divulge the circumstances with which they become acquainted in the carrying out of this law, so long as they divulging them would be prejudicial to the parties concerned, unless such information is required for carrying out the law.

Art. 34.—If any person, in case of a dispute about the value of goods entered for importation, wilfully submits a false or falsified document with the purpose of influencing the valuation, he shall be punished by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year.

Offences punishable under this Article are considered to be crimes.

Fl. O.

Special Provisions. (a) When the alcoholic strength of the liquid is higher or lower, the quantity shall be reduced to the standard of 50% of alcohol. The instructions, instruments and tables for ascertaining and reducing the alcoholic strength shall be determined by the Governor-General.

(b) The reduction to this strength, however, of liqueurs and other similar distilled beverages, which are prepared or mixed with substances so that the strength cannot be ascertained merely by means of hydrometers and thermometers, shall always be conducted in relation to a strength of 75%, unless the officials suspect that the liquors declared as such beverages contain a higher alcoholic proportion than 75%. In such case, they are authorized to require that the actual strength be ascertained, and the reduction shall be made accordingly.

(c) Distilled products, except liqueurs proper, which have been prepared or mixed with any ingredients so that the degree of strength cannot be ascertained direct by means of hydrometers and thermometers, shall not be dutiable as liqueurs and other similar distilled beverages, when the actual strength thereof does not exceed by more than 5% their apparent strength, but according to their actual strength, provided the importer has correctly declared the actual strength in addition to the apparent strength.

(d) For strength and all other liquids prepared with alcohol, excepting beverages, as well as for wood spirit, and all liquids prepared from, or mixed with it, the reduction shall be made in the proportion of a strength of 100%.

(e) The Governor-General may, however, with the necessary precautions, grant exemption from duty: 1, for wood spirit, and 2, for distilled spirit: a, which in the Netherlands, in accordance with the provisions there in force as regards exemption from excise duty, have been mixed with wood spirit or any other ingredient indicated there for rendering them unfit for ordinary consumption; b, which, in the Dutch Indies, in accordance with the instructions to be issued thereon and under inspection of officials, are rendered unfit for ordinary consumption by the addition of wood spirit or some other ingredient indicated for the purpose by the Governor-General; and, c, for the preparation of vinegar.

(f) The Governor-General may also, with the necessary precautions, direct that paint and varnish prepared by means of distilled products rendered unfit for ordinary use, be admitted to importation, subject to payment of the import duty leviable under the Tariff on "Other paint."

(g) The import duty on sulphuric ether, chloroform, and other similar substances prepared from, or with, alcohol shall be regulated by the Governor-General, by Colonial Ordinance, according to the import duty on distilled products. (See Note II, hereafter.)

(h) When distilled beverages are imported through Custom-houses other than those specially designed for that purpose by the Governor-General, they shall be dutiable as varnish or liquids assimilated to varnish.

(i) In case the import duties on distilled products should be increased as a consequence of the increase of the excise duty leviable in the Dutch Indies, the Governor-General shall establish regulations regarding the further payment of the amount of the increase of the import duty on distilled products which may be found to exist in a quantity exceeding the maximum fixed by him.

Notes.—1.—Liquors shall include by similitude: absinth, syrups prepared with distilled products, and fruits in brandy or in distilled products.

The following articles shall, by similitude, pay the same duties as distilled products: arrack, brandy, cognac, gin, perfumery articles with an alcoholic basis or prepared with alcohol, also rum.

Importations made for the private use of officers or their subordinates shall be excepted, even when such articles are shipped to their official address.

b Provisions, necessities, and stores for consumption on board of vessels entering the port, upon the condition that such articles be entered in the manifest, conformably to Art. 4, and that the Customs have, on their visit, ascertained that they are really intended for this purpose and do not exceed the quantity fixed in Art. 3.

This exemption may also be granted for larger quantities provided that the excess be re-exported on the same vessel and that, up to the time of exportation, it remains under Customs supervision or seal.

c Effects and baggage of travellers, for their personal use; new articles excepted.

These shall be examined on entry and shall only be admitted if, when the examiner finds that they have been in use, that they are not new, are not comestibles and are proportionate to the profession or social condition of the owner.

e Gold and silver coins; gold and silver, in bars, ingots or any other form so that such metals cannot be utilized for any other purpose without re-melting.

f Articles exported and re-imported within one year after having undergone reproof of any kind.

In order to obtain this exemption an application in writing shall be made to the Controller of Taxes at Paramaribo, or to the Collector at Nickerie, before the shipment for export, containing a full description of the articles to be exported.

The officials above mentioned shall satisfy themselves as to whether the articles are furnished with identification marks or whether sufficient guaranty can be obtained in order to check the goods at the time of re-importation by determining the size, weight, marks and other particulars; in such case, they will direct the adoption of those means in granting the authorisation.

No exemption will be granted if the said officials are of opinion that the articles are not intended to undergo any kind of repair, but are forwarded abroad for some other purpose.

Prior to shipment the officials shall state on the authorisation the exact particulars and note any identification marks which may have been affixed to the articles.

This document shall be handed to the person concerned to afterwards serve as a voucher in claiming the exemption from duty. The expenses incurred for affixing the identification marks shall be borne by the person concerned.

MONEY, WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.—The monetary unit of Italy is the lira=100 centesimi. For weights and measures this country has adopted the metrical system; the quintal employed in the tariff is the technical quintal of 100 kilograms.

PRELIMINARY DISPOSITIONS.
Art. 1.—Customs duties are to be collected whatever be the state of the goods. The Customs cannot grant a rebate of duties in whole or in part on account of damage, from whatever cause, but it shall be optional for the owner of damaged goods to take the same to be destroyed at his expense under the control of the Customs.

Art. 2.—Should different parts of an article which, when put together, constitute an article specially mentioned in the tariff, be presented for clearance in one or more cases, even with separate declarations emanating from a single person, such detached parts, although imported separately, shall be liable to the duty on the article which they are destined to compose.

Art. 3.—In case of contestation between the Customs and the importers relative to the description of the goods, the provisions of the Law No. 5028 (3rd series) of November 13, 1887, must be complied with.

Art. 4.—Goods not mentioned in the tariff or in the tariff index ("Repertorio") shall be assimilated to the goods with which they show the closest analogy. The assimilation is determined by the Minister of Finance under a founded decree, with the advice of the Board of Customs experts. The decree must be published in the "Gazzetta ufficiale."

These goods shall be dealt with according to the stipulation concerning Customs contestations without taking the opinion of the Chamber of Commerce.

Art. 5.—Goods proceeding from countries in which Italian vessels and products are subject to a differential regime, may be burdened with an increase of frontier duties up to 50 per cent. of the duty inscribed in the General tariff.

In the case of goods duty-free under the tariff, the same may be burdened with an import duty up to 25 per cent. of their official market value.

These dispositions shall be issued by Royal decree describing the goods liable to the surtax and the extent to which such increase of duty shall be applied.

The decree in question must immediately be submitted to Parliament to be converted into law.

Art. 6.—In the event of modification of the duties inscribed in the tariff, there shall be levied:

(Text approved by the Royal Decree of July 28, 1910, No. 577.)

On goods specified in the annexed table imported into the country (except for transit and for deposit in bond and subsequent re-importation) a statistical tax of 10 centesimi for each unit as fixed in that table is leviable.

The statistical tax shall not be levied:

a. On goods entering the country in quantities not exceeding 20 kilograms.

b. On goods which in virtue of the preliminary provisions of the Customs tariff or for the purpose of facilitating the traffic at the frontier or in the neutral zones, are within the required conditions to enjoy the exemption from duties.

The minimum amount of statistical tax to be collected on each consignment shall be lira 0.10.

Rules and conditions for the levying of the statistical tax shall be made by Ministerial decree.

RULES FOR THE APPLICATION OF THE STATISTICAL TAX.

(The Ministerial Decree of July 26, 1896, co-ordinated with the text of the legal regulations approved by the Royal Decree of July 28, 1910, No. 577.)

Art. 1.—For the application of the statistical tax established by the text of the legal regulations approved by Royal Decree of July 28, 1910, No. 577, the following rules must be observed:

Art. 2.—The statistical tax on the goods specified in the Schedule annexed must be levied at the time when the said goods, whether they arrive from abroad or are delivered from Customs depots or warehouses, go into home consumption, are imported temporarily or admitted to re-importation on discharge of temporary export bill.

Art. 3.—Independently of that which is established by the regulations contained in the said text, the following are exempt from the statistical tax:

a. Damaged goods which, at the importer's request, have been destroyed as provided in Art. 1 of the preliminary dispositions of the Tariff.

b. Salvage goods, or merchandise landed owing to force majeure if not put into consumption in the country;

c. Goods re-entering the country after conveyance on coasting vessels;

d. Goods merely transhipped in ports of the Kingdom, notwithstanding that, pending the arrival of the receiving vessel, they might temporarily be lying on the quays or located in proper premises until re-shipped;

e. Cattle temporarily imported or re-imported on discharge of temporary export bills;

f. Merchandise of every description which, in accordance with the Regulations in force, are delivered without any Customs form being issued.

Art. 4.—The statistical tax is to be charged on all goods capable of being assimilated to those described under any tariff number or paragraph fully appearing in the annexed Schedule.

Exception is made, however, in the case of axle grease consisting of rosin and lime, which is not liable to the statistical tax levied on cart and machine grease, etc.

As regards the tariff numbers and paragraphs partly reproduced in the Schedule, only such goods as are specifically enumerated shall be charged with the statistical tax.

Art. 5.—In assessing the statistical tax, it will, in all cases, be necessary to consider according to what weight the Customs duties are imposed. If the goods are free of duty, the statistical tax shall be payable on the gross weight.

Should the same clearance bill affect different kinds of goods subject to the statistical tax, the same shall be assessed on the aggregate weight of all the goods, a discrimination being solely made between those goods on which the tax is payable at the rate of 10 centesimi per quintal and others paying 10 centesimi the ton.

In case the aggregate weight of all the goods liable to statistical tax and covered by a single clearance bill exceeds 20 kilograms, the statistical tax shall be leviable, even if each separate article of merchandise weighs less than that limit.

Art. 6.—The weight of duty-free goods entering in bulk or in heavy lots may be ascertained by sounding or by referring to the way-bills or charter parties.

Art. 7.—As regards transit consignments of goods liable to statistical tax, bond must be furnished for the amount thereof, notwithstanding that the goods in question may be free of Customs duty.

Art. 8.—The statistical tax shall be collected by the Customs on the same form as is used for clearance of the goods, and must be entered immediately below the total of the principal duties.

The amounts assessed and collected by way of statistical tax are to be entered in the counter-roll Registers from which the bills are detached in a special column provided for the purpose.

Art. 9.—The statistical tax may be paid in paper currency, whether the goods be entered for warehousing, temporary importation or re-importation or be declared for home consumption.

Art. 10.—The statistical tax is deemed Customs revenue, for the application of the stamp duty on the bills for the purposes of Art. 19, §§ 3 and 4, of the preliminary dispositions of the tariff.

Art. 11.—The monies collected by way of statistical tax shall be paid to account of the balance under the Chapter of assets relating to Customs and Maritime duties and be specially headed in the administrative and financial accounts.

(*) On aerated waters there is levied, in addition to the import duty, a surtax of manufacture equal to the internal tax of manufacture. For the purpose of the surtax a hectolitre shall be considered equal to a quintal, which forms the basis for the collection of the import duty. The internal tax of manufacture is 4 lire per quintal.

(†) Natural wines exceeding 12 degrees in strength shall, in addition to the duty proper on wines, pay the duty and surtax on the alcohol in excess of that limit at the rate of 1 litre of anhydrous alcohol per degree and per hectolitre. If the alcoholic strength exceeds 12 but not 15 degrees, the duties on the alcohol shall be levied in proportion on fractions of a tenth of a degree; fractions of less than a tenth of a degree are ignored; if the alcoholic strength exceeds 15 degrees, the same duties shall be levied, fractions of a degree not below a tenth being reckoned as a full degree.

On natural wines admitted at the conventional duty, the duty and surtax on alcohol is levied in addition to the conventional duty at the rate of 1 litre of anhydrous spirit per hectolitre, and for every degree of alcoholic strength beyond 15°, fractions not exceeding 1/10° being ignored but those exceeding 1/10° being reckoned as a full degree.

The alcoholic strength of sweet wines, containing more than 1% of non-fermented sugar, in which the total quantity of sugar (represented by the sugar present, and the sugar contained in the alcohol contained in the wine) exceeds 36%, is calculated by adding to the alcohol contained in the wine the alcohol corresponding to the sugar present (sugar x 0.63).

(†) On beer, whether in casks, barrels or bottles, there is levied in addition to the import duty, a surtax of manufacture equal to the internal tax of manufacture, according to the July ascertainment of alcoholic and alcoholic strength of the beer. At the July ascertainment of the alcoholic strength of the beer, the duty is levied on the basis of 16 degrees.

The internal tax of manufacture is 1 lira 20 centesimi per degree and per hectolitre.

(†) On spirits beyond the duty, the surtax of manufacture must be paid equal to the internal tax of manufacture.

The surtax of manufacture on sweetened or flavoured spirits, including cognac, even when in bottles, can in no case be calculated on an alcoholic strength inferior to 70°. When the Customs have reason to believe that the alcoholic strength of the spirit exceeds 70°, they can have the same analysed and if the alcoholic strength exceeds 70°, the surtax is to be collected on the actual strength ascertained. The internal tax of manufacture of spirits is fixed at 270 lire per hectolitre of anhydrous alcohol at a temperature 15.56° by centesimal thermometer.

(2) The importation of foreign alcohol of a strength less than 95° of the official centesimal alcoholometer is prohibited.

(d) Under the treaty with Germany, gelatinous alumina is to be classed in No. 43.

(e) Carbonate of magnesia manufactured in the Valley of Ledro is admitted, in virtue of the treaty with Austria-Hungary, at the rate of 15 lire per quintal, up to an annual quantity of 220 quintals gross, and on condition that the origin of the product be proved by certificates issued by the competent authorities.

(f) The importation of salts of mineral and spring waters for health or curative purposes, containing more than 25% of chloride of sodium is subject to compliance with the formalities laid down by the Minister of Finance in reference to the control of the trade in salts and saline mixtures for health or curative purposes. Said salts containing more than 25% of sodium chloride will be liable, over and above the customs duty, to the surtax at a rate equal to the tax affecting the internal production. According to Art. 4 of Law No. 329, of July 3, 1904, modified by Law No. 207, of May 17, 1906, the salts and saline mixtures extracted from mineral waters are dutiable at the same rate as salt for industrial purposes sold to the public (i.e. 12 lire per quintal) on the quantity of chloride of sodium which they contain.

(g) For salts containing not more than 25% of chloride of sodium the duty of 10 lire is fixed by the treaty with Germany.

(h) These duties are obviously incorrect. They would appear by inadvertence to be transposed, so that the duty should really be 10 lire under the general tariff and 5 lire under the conventional tariff.

(i) Ether and chloroform are dutiable without deducting the weight of the immediate receptacles.

(j) Chemical products not specially mentioned containing alcohol or in the manufacture of which alcohol is used, will be liable, over and above the customs duty, to the surtax in respect of the quantity of alcohol imported therefor or used in manufacturing same. The amount of this surtax shall be fixed by the Minister of Finance with the advice of the Board of Customs experts.

(k) On tamarinds containing more than 28% of sugar (calculated as inverting sugar) there shall be levied, in addition to the Customs duty on the tamarinds, the Customs duty and the surtax on sugar of the second class assessed on the quantity of contained sugar exceeding the said limit.

(b) All substances which, on their immediate wrappers or otherwise, indicate that they possess medicinal properties are considered as compound medicines. Medicinal compounds include medicinal drugs mixed together, or mixed with pulp, juice or extracts, or moistened or liquidified with syrups, mucilage, spirits &c. whether such mixtures occur in the form of powder or dry paste, or whether in a moist or liquid state. Medicinal compounds also include artificial balsams and the effervescent citrates of magnesia and lithium.

The duty on medicinal compounds is levied without deduction for the weight of the immediate receptacles.

(b) Medicinal articles and medicinal compounds, containing alcohol, or in the manufacture of which alcohol has been employed, shall, in addition to the ordinary duty, pay a surtax on the quantity of the alcohol contained therein on importation or used in their manufacture. The amount of this surtax shall be determined by the Ministry of Finance, with the advice of the Board of Customs experts.

(c) Alcoholic perfumery shall, in addition to the import duty, pay a surtax equal to the internal tax of manufacture, on the basis of 80 litres of anhydrous alcohol to 1 quintal of perfumery, including the weight of the immediate receptacles. The surtax has been fixed at 160 lire per quintal. The surtax of manufacture on alcohol shall be collected after deducting the weight of the immediate receptacles in the case of imports from countries entitled to the most favourable nation treatment, when the importer consents to abide by the ascertainment of such weight.

(d) This duty was raised from 100 to 115 by a decree of Sept. 27, 1916.

(e) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary and Germany the duty, 8 lire, is applicable to wax, pure or mixed with paraffin.

(f) The Decree of May 12, 1877, imposes a manuf. taxing tax on soap of all kinds, whether solid, in paste, or liquid. This tax, which, in the case of imported soap, is leviable in addition to the customs duty, is fixed at the following rates: toilet and medicinal soaps 40 lire, and soaps of all other kinds 320 lire per quintal.

(g) Common soap similar in shape to toilet soap is dutiable as scented soap.

(h) Matches, besides the import duty, are liable to a surtax of manufacture equal to the internal tax of manufacture.

The surtax has been fixed at 1 centesmo per 30 matches of wax, wood or other materials, fine i.e. combined with paraffin stearine &c. and to the same surtax per 30 matches of wax, called fine minutes (ascetiscicola), or per 60 matches of wood or other materials, common, i.e. sulphured.

Matches with two inflammable ends shall be liable to double the surtax.

Note.—The Republic of San Marino, 20, 1916, gave to the State the right to import matches into Italy. The importation of the following articles into the kingdom is prohibited: (a) Any lighting (light) apparatus which can be used in place of matches; (b) Flint or fire stone for use with such apparatus; (c) Any articles which can be used in place of such apparatus or stone for the purpose of ignition.

(i) On blasting and sporting gun powder (manufactured with saltpetre, sulphur and charcoal), as well as all other explosives, there shall be levied, in addition to the duty, a surtax and also the internal tax of manufacture.

The tax on the manufacture of gunpowder or any other kind of explosive is established as follows:

(a) Agreement with France.

(b) The weight of the covering taken as 2-3rds of total weight paying the specific duty of 50 lire.

(c) In virtue of the treaty with Germany, synthetic indigo cannot be liable to 10 lire or higher duties than are leviable on natural indigo.

(d) According to the treaty with Germany, colors extracted from tar by means of sulphuric acid, sulphur or sulphides are classified under No. 130 a and b. Under the treaty with Switzerland, tar dyes (aniline, naphthalene, resorcin, anthra-line dyes; vital dyes) are included under No. 130 even when they contain substances (e.g., chloride of sodium, in a proportion not exceeding 50% acetic acid, dextrine, sulphate of sodium &c.) the price of which is a levy intended to reduce or fix their shade, to prevent their precipitation in the bath, or to give the dyes similar properties having the effect of increasing their utility. If in order to ascertain that the dyes do not contain more than 50% of chloride of sodium, an analysis should be necessary, the importers will be at liberty to at once remove the goods from the Customs, and to freely dispose of the same, upon making a deposit or furnishing bond for the amount of the monopoly price of the common salt, at the rate of 30 kilograms of salt for every 100 kilo. of dye. In case the analysis shows that the dye contains more than 50% of chloride of sodium, the monopoly price shall be charged on the quantity exceeding that limit.

(e) The duty of 10 lire is, in virtue of the treaty with Germany, also applicable to aniline lacs. By "aniline lacs" shall be understood the combination of aniline with aluminum and oxides of tin, lead or iron (without admixture of mineral oil or alcohol, in dry or moist paste).

(f) On alcoholic varnishes there is levied, in addition to the import duty, a surtax on the alcohol equal to the internal tax of manufacture, on the basis of 67 litres of anhydrous alcohol to a quintal of varnish on which the import duty is levied. The amount of the surtax is 134 lire per quintal.

(g) This duty was raised from 35 to 45 by a decree of September 27, 1910.

Gloves and stockings or socks simply cut from knitted stuffs in the piece and not sewn are classified as sewn goods. Those with diminished mesh ("a punto diminuito") are classified as shaped stockings, socks and gloves, even if the pieces turned out by the machine, joined to one another, have not yet been separated by cutting or otherwise. |   |  |                 |   |  |   |

(c) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, platings, tissues of wood shavings glued on hemp, linen or jute tissues, for the manufacture of hats, shall conventionally be treated as plaits of straw, bast &c. for the manufacture of hats (No. 246, 1).

(d) Embroidered tissues of this or other categories are, in virtue of the treaty with Switzerland, liable with regard to the material, quality or color of the yarn constituting the embroidery, but this can only refer to textile threads. Under the same treaty, the duties of Nos. 152, 173, 174, 194 and 217 are applicable to embroideries and embroidered articles, whether felt-cut or cut out or not.

Tissues (tulle, muslin, tulle, gauze, etamine, &c.), lightly attached to embroideries, and serving only to preserve them, are free of duty.

(e) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, the conventional duty established for this number is only applicable to stout tissues of linen, hemp or jute, weighing more than 400 grammes per square metre, rendered waterproof by means of greases, chemical products or metallic soap.

(f) The treaty with Switzerland stipulates that linen cloths for hangings ("Salmbra", "Tekko", &c.) coated with an oily substance, or colored, printed, bronzed or dry stenciled (gouffré), are also entitled to the conventional treatment of No. 152b.

When sewn articles cannot be classed according to the threads entering in a square of 5 millimetres side, they will be subject to the highest duty of the class to which they belong. Sewn articles pay the duty of the most highly taxed tissues of which composed.

This provision is applicable to Categories VI. VII. and VIII. as well as to this category.

(a) By application of the treaties with Austria-Hungary and Germany, curtains, simply hemmed, are assimilated to bed and table linen. The Austro-Hungarian treaty also subjects linen or hemp handkerchiefs to the conventional duty of No. 160b.

(b) According to the treaty with Switzerland, handkerchiefs and other articles with open-worked hems of all kinds made by the Gégout or other sewing machines are not considered as embroidered. These articles pay the conventional duty on the tissue, increased by 20 %, the cost of the conventional surtax for sewing. The same principle is also adopted in the treaty with Austria-Hungary in regard to the articles classed in No. 160b, and the fact that in such articles with open-worked hems, warp or woof threads may have been removed, is left out of account.

Under the same treaty with Austria-Hungary, the articles included in No. 160b with complex open-worked hems, even with corners worked in "festoons" or "spiders' web," are admitted at the conventional duty applicable to the tissue increased by 20 %, the cost of the conventional surtax for sewing.

(c) Corsets simply bordered with ribbons of linen, hemp or cotton, are not considered as embroidered. Corsets with simple stitches in fan-shape, even with silk threads serving to affix the whalebones, shall not be considered as embroidered.

(d) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, tarpaulins, made of stout tissues of linen, hemp or jute, rendered impermeable by means of greases, oil, tar, metallic soap or chemical products, sewn and furnished with buckles, rings, corals &c., are admitted at the rate fixed for No. 153a increased by 10 %.

(a) According to the treaty with Switzerland, tissues in which more than 20 warp threads or more than 20 weft threads less each other are considered as worked tissues.

(b) Small shawls (écharpes) of cotton, and similar cotton articles, with a light dry-stamped impression on the borders, will not, in virtue of the treaty with Switzerland, be considered as figured. Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, cotton tissues with rippled surface-dressing produced by the cylinder press machine, are classed, without regard to the rippling, according to the quality of the tissue.

(c) In virtue of the treaty with Switzerland, broadened tissues are those having design formed by the introduction of a thread belonging neither to warp nor weft, and superimposed in some way upon the ground-work tissue at the time of manufacture. The design can, therefore, be removed by means of scissors without impairing the substance of the tissue, unlike figured or damasked tissues, included in Nos. 169 and 174, where the design cannot be removed without picking the tissue to pieces.

(d) Tissues presenting a creamy bluish &c. tint, owing to sizing, are, according to the treaty with Switzerland, dutiable as such and undyed.

(e) Under the treaty with Switzerland, applications of tulle or tissue taken into consideration as embroidery in the classification of the articles set forth in No. 173 do not involve the surtax for needlework.

(f) See footnote (d) to No. 162.

(g) According to the treaty with Switzerland, the articles included under No. 173 are so included even when the design in chain-stitch is completed in places by a lock-stitch or "spider" web ("Spachtel" or open-work pattern, not having the effect of changing the fundamental character of the article or its use.

(h) In accordance with the treaty, curtains with ground of figured tulle or with application of figured tulle, dutiable as lace under the "Repartorio" to the General Italian tariff in force at the time of signing the treaty, are excluded from the conventional treatment.

<sup>3</sup> In pursuance of the treaty, chemical lace (broderies chimiques) are entitled to conventional treatment under this heading, even if a ground tissue of cotton (including cotton tulle) is visible in parts of the interior of the design or if the lace has the form of galloons or motifs whether or not joined together at the ends or applied on by means of embroidery or sewing.

(a) Under the treaty with Switzerland, in the classification of woolen tissues, except velvets, the dry-stamping (goffering) is not taken into account.

According to the same treaty, shawls of tissues of combed wool, with woven fringes, muscins, even goffered on the borders, are admitted at the conventional rates of the tissues without fringes and non-goffered.

See footnote (d) to No. 152.

(a) According to the treaty with Austria-Hungary, the duty of 17 lire does not apply to "étrémidelles" nor to disks or diaphragms for presses.

(b) Common blankets, known as "schuine", of wool treated with lime, entirely white or with plain coloured borders are, conformably to the treaty with Austria-Hungary, admitted up to a quantity of 100 quilats per annum at the reduced duty of lire 22.50 per quintal, provided that the origin be duly proved by certificates from the competent authorities, and on condition that Austria-Hungary grants the same treatment to "schuine" of Italian origin.

(c) According to the treaty with Germany, in the classification of hosiery and knitted goods under No. 200 b, borders of ribbon or tape at attachments used for securing or fastening are not taken into consideration except as to levying the needlework surtax.

Shaped hosiery classed in No. 200 b 2 are not liable to the surtax in respect of the sewing necessary for completing the article.

Under the same treaty, stockings and gloves are excluded from the conventional treatment but come under the provisions of the first part of this note. Coris obtained on the gloves merely by overfolding are not to affect the classification of the article, which is considered as sewn only and not as unbordered. See note to No. 154d.

(e) The duty of 4-50 lire is "conventionalised" in respect of Japanese silk tissues, having and the like, unbleached or simply décru (not bleached, dyed nor printed), weighing not more than 40 grammes per square metre; plain handkerchiefs, fichus, shawls and other sewn articles made of habutai tissue are to pay the above-mentioned duty increased by 20%.

(d) See footnote (d) to No. 152.

(e) According to the treaty with Switzerland, the application of tulle or tissue, which are taken into account as embroidery in the classification of the articles included in No. 217, does not involve the needlework surtax.

(f) By virtue of the same treaty, chemical lace (broderies aériennes) of silk are subject to the conventional treatment of this heading even if a ground tissue of any material (even tulle) is visible in parts of the interior of the design, or if the lace has the form of galloons or "motifs," whether or not joined at the ends or applied by means of embroidery or sewing.

(a) According to the treaty, with Switzerland, printed books may contain engravings, photographs, lithographs, &c., inserted into the text by way of illustration without their classification being altered on that account. The same is true of the treaty with the Netherlands. Illustrate printed books are, however, subject to their own classification, when capable of being separated from such books, and when no inscriptions or indications whatever are on them in reference to the text, or when they are not inserted into the text. They may be placed separately from the books, either in the form of loose sheets or united together in booklets or volumes. The same treaty provides that books of devotion and calendars in the form of books are subject to the same classification as the books of which they form a part. Reproductions of pictures for the purpose of ornamenting and not illustrating the text,

(b) By virtue of the treaty with Germany, printed books ornamented with simple lines or vignettes in order to separate the chapters or headings, are not on that account subject to a higher duty.

(c) Under the treaty with Switzerland, bound books included under No. 258 may have ornaments of common metal, even gilt or silvered, without any addition being made to the duty on that account.

(d) By effect of the treaties with Austria-Hungary and Switzerland, the duty of 22 lire is applicable to unprinted books bound in pasteboard, even if the corners and backs are covered with cloth.

(e) According to the treaties with Austria-Hungary and Germany, lithographed music is considered as printed music.

(f) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, skins for furriers' wares are dutiable under 24b even if, in consequence of injuries due, for example, to tanning or dyeing, they have been imperfectly patched up or mended.

(c) General Notes to Category XII.—I. Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, articles of common metals, gold or silver plated, are assimilated to gilt or silvered wares in so far as the "Reperorio" in force at the time of signing the treaty does not expressly classify them under articles of gold or silver, or small wares.

II. In pursuance of the same treaty, the under-mentioned articles of common metals are classified, according to the quality of the metal and rate leviable thereon, under Nos. 285, 286, 287, 289, 291, 294, 297, 298, 302 and 363: Goblets, cans, dishes, bottle and glass holders; coffee or tea pots, sugar basins, bread trays, fruit dishes, decanter trays, salt cellars, ash trays, knife rests, spoons and forks wholly of common metal or of a single material or with bone handles, table knives of iron or steel with handles of common metal or bone, pie-dishes, sauce boats, sugar sifters, tea strainers, kettles, autoclaves, glass tanks, knife trays, egg onions, epergnes, match holders, table or suspending, smokers' tables (gargouilles) of metal, clothes racks, inkstands (except pocket or travelling), candlesticks, lamps and lighting apparatus of all kinds (except electric lamps), furniture, lithins (except furniture ornaments of sheet iron), watch boxes and clock cases (household) and kitchen utensils, paper weights, paper cutters, cigarette-card trays, watch stands, menu holders and cups.

(d) In order to come under this duty the waste imported from countries where it is subject to export duty must be accompanied by a certificate of the foreign customs house at which duty may have been levied. The certificate must further show its date of issue as well as the name and address of the shipper and consignee.

(c) By virtue of the treaty with Switzerland, wrought cast-iron wares manufactured under this heading may be prime-coated (couleur d'appât) or tarred, without being liable to an increase of duty on that account. The same provision has been stipulated in the treaty with Austria-Hungary for articles classed in No. 2739, and in the treaty with Germany for articles specified in No. 2732. According to the treaty with Austria-Hungary, the application of red lead and the such like is to be considered as prime coating (couleur d'appât).

(f). Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, the conventional rate of No. 273a shall also apply to ferro-manganese containing up to 30% of manganese.

(g) According to the treaty with Austria-Hungary, articles of cast-iron are regarded as rough and are dutiable under No. 273b, even if they have undergone after casting a rough process of scouring with a view to the removal of the traces of heels and seams, provided they have not received any further working.

(a) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, iron wire merely annealed is not dutiable as oxidized wire, but is included under No. 279b.

(b) The German treaty provides that, in case of doubt, the thickness of sheet iron is to be determined by ascertaining the real weight and surface of the sheet iron. The thickness shall be gathered from the weight and surface by taking as a basis a specific gravity of 7, 8, i.e., a weight of 7, kilogrammes per square metre, of a sheet having 1 millimetre in thickness.

(c) Are considered as simply trimmed, sheets and plates of a square or rectangular shape. All plates and sheets of other shape, i.e., hexagonal, pentagonal, circular, triangular &c. are treated as cut.

(d) It must be understood that under the treaties with Austria-Hungary and Germany the duties on the iron and steel articles mentioned in No. 279 are also conventionalized for the present No.

(a) See Note (e) to No. 285.

(b) See Note (f) to No. 286.

(c) Under the treaty with Switzerland, steel springs for weaving looms are dutiable at the conventional rate of this heading, even when capable of being utilized for other purposes.

(d) It must be understood that under the treaties with Austria-Hungary and Germany, the duties on the iron or steel articles mentioned in No. 287 a 2 and b 2, are also conventionalized for the present No.

(e) The treaty with Austria-Hungary provides that iron sheets falling under Nos. 280a, nickelled, lacquered, painted, or with impressed designs, as also wares of such sheets, in so far as the "Reperorio" in force at the time of signing the treaty classifies them as "Manufactures, according to the material of which they are composed," are dutiable under No. 285a, at the rate of 19 or 21 lire per quintal. If they are combined with other materials, they are dutiable under No. 285b at the rate of 23 or 25 lire per quintal.

As regards articles in combination with other materials (e.g. locks with screws, rings &c.), the provisions of Section 4 of the Preliminary Dispositions in the "Reperorio" are applicable. (See also General Note II, to Category XIII.)

(f) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, iron sheets falling under No. 280b, nickelled, lacquered, painted, or with impressed designs, as also wares of such sheets, are dutiable under No. 286 at the rate of 20 or 22 lire per quintal, and if they are combined with other materials they are dutiable under No. 286b at the rate of 24 or 26 lire per quintal.

(e) According to the treaty with Switzerland, milk fresh, sterilized or peptonized, with the addition of other substances, even if imported in bottles or boxes, is exempt from duty. Bottles containing milk are temporarily admitted free of duty if re-exported within a period not exceeding 6 months.

(f) In virtue of the treaty with Switzerland in the assessment of the duty on condensed milk in blocks or leaves, no account is taken of the sugar naturally contained in the milk.

(g) By virtue of the treaty with Switzerland, the conventional duty of No. 435 b 1 is applicable to milk without sugar in a dry state.

(h) Excluding milk in blocks or leaves.

(i) Under the treaty with Switzerland, in the assessment of duty on milk in blocks or leaves, no account is taken of the coating with which covered (cocoa, butter or other substances), provided it is solely intended to preserve the milk or leaves.

(j) By effect of the treaty with Austria-Hungary, butter made from milk of the Vestino Valley, imported through the custom-house of Casello, with certificates of origin issued by the competent authorities, is admitted at the duty of 750 lire per quintal if fresh, and 1000 lire if salted, in an amount not exceeding 65 quintals per annum.

(k) By effect of the treaty with Austria-Hungary, the soft cheese known as "Brindza," made of goat or sheep's milk, is admitted at a special duty of 3 lire per quintal, on condition that the total quantity annually imported does not exceed 800 quintals and that the origin from Austria-Hungary be proved by certificates issued by the competent authorities.

In virtue of the same treaty, cheese (not including "Brindza") of the Vestino Valley, imported through the custom-house of Casello, with certificates of origin issued by the competent authorities, is admitted at half the conventional duty in an amount not exceeding 25 quintals.

(h) The above descriptions refer to differences of manufacture and not necessarily to places of production. Duty of 4 lire is accordingly granted for all kinds of cheese of this kind of manufacture, whatever be the district from which it proceeds.

Articles classed in the Repertory under the head of small wares without specification of kind, must be treated as fine small wares, when ornamented with silk, real or imitation amber, ivory, mother-of-pearl, tortoise-shell, feathers, artificial flowers or with lace; or further, when gilt or silvered. Should, however, these wares be combined with precious metals, they shall follow the regime applicable to silversmiths' wares or jewellery. Articles which the Repertory assimilates to common small wares, when wholly made of wood, follow the regime applicable to wooden small wares (f).

(e) Exclusive of combs and hair pins.

(f) The duty of 50 lire does not apply to combs and hair pins (Agreement with France).

(g) On automatic self-lighters which can be substituted for ordinary matches, a surtax of manufacture is charged at the rate of 1-50 per piece in addition to the customs duty.

(d) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, the presence of unessential parts of tissue as, for example, padding (even of silk, half-silk or plush) in the case of articles which, in accordance with the "Reperorio" in force at the time of signing the treaty, are not, by reason of their other qualities, to be classified as small wares, does not cause such articles to be placed in the category of small wares. (f) In virtue of the treaty with Austria-Hungary, tobacco pipes of clay, metal, fine earthenware and porcelain, with tops and rims of common silvered metal are classed as common small wares.

According to the treaty with Germany the term "common small wares" shall also include albums covered or ornamented with leather or tissue except silk, also with gilt or silvered edges or gold or silver stamped.

(h) By virtue of the treaty with Austria-Hungary, the duty of 10 lire shall be applicable to hat-making plaids of chip, mixed with less than 50% of any textile material, except silk.

(i) Under the treaty with Austria-Hungary, glass, earthen and porcelain wares with ornaments of precious metal which can be regarded as simple accessories, in particular, glass articles with lines and ornaments of silver applied by galvanic process, are dutiable as fine small wares under No. 451 b.

(j) The treaty with Germany provides that the conventional rate of 150 lire shall also apply to such toys of all kind, including dolls, as are classed under "fine small wares."

(k) By virtue of the treaty with Austria-Hungary, the duty of 10 lire shall be applicable to hat-making plaids of chip, mixed with less than 12% of silk.

In default of a permit, and if the importation has the character of a commercial shipment, the articles in question after having been subjected to the Customs formalities, shall, until otherwise ordered, be transported under escort to the artillery depots.

The exportation and transhipment of the articles in question can only be effected on vessels exceeding 100 tons register, and with the previous authorisation of the Government of the colony.

Should, at the expiration of such period, the goods not be re-exported or destroyed, the Customs shall destroy the same at the expense of the carrier.

4. The exportation of horses, mules and pack or saddle asses is prohibited without previous authorization from the Governor of the colony.

REGULATIONS &c. ADDITIONAL ARTICLES EXEMPT FROM DUTY, TARE ALLOWANCES, STORAGE, TONNAGE AND LIGHTHOUSE DUES, DRAWBACK AND REFUND OF IMPORT DUTIES:

§ 1.—The following duties and dues on goods and vessels shall be collected and paid into the Treasury:

(a) Import duties; (b) storage dues; (c) tonnage and lighthouse dues.

§ 2.—The import duties established in the minimum tariff shall be collected on the pleasure boats enumerated in No. 15, on foreign goods imported into the country for consumption, whether the importation be for account of the State or of private persons, as well as on all goods of national manufacture having enjoyed a drawback on exportation, unless the Department should grant exemption of all or part of the duties.

The maximum tariff shall be applicable to any foreign country not having concluded a Treaty of commerce and navigation with Norway, wherein Norwegian goods and vessels are less favourably treated than the goods and vessels of any other country. The maximum rates shall likewise apply to goods specified in tariffs annexed to treaties concluded with foreign countries and which have ceased to be in force. But the King may if he deems fit, order that the foregoing dispositions are not to be applicable either in whole or in regard to certain imported goods pending the question being submitted to the Storting for its decision. The King may decide under what conditions and for what goods special certificates of origin shall be required to secure the application of the tariff.

In addition to such goods as by special license or permission have been or hereafter may be imported free of duty, the following articles shall be exempt from import duty:

(a) Ship's inventories (except the tackle mentioned in Tariff No. 15), including cabin, galley and similar articles, provided that their quantity and quantity may be considered suitable and that they remain for use on the vessels on which they were imported from foreign countries. The fact that such inventories have been re-exported from the country as transit goods and return in the same vessel in which they were used does not make them liable to duty on re-entry.

(b) Similar inventories (except what come ashore loose or from vessels wrecked on the Norwegian coasts; also such inventories which have belonged to Norwegian vessels wrecked or legally condemned as unseaworthy in foreign countries, after the requisite vouchers have been approved by the Customs Department.

(c) Ship's provisions and other ship's stores brought in ships from foreign countries and remaining on board, provided that they do not exceed what Customs officers have warranted by the size of the vessel, its crew and passengers, and the time it remains in the port of arrival. If the goods and passengers it carries are destined to leave the ports in the country the consumption of the goods free of duty may continue until the vessel arrives at the final place of delivery of the goods and passengers brought from abroad as well as during its stay there. If the vessel thereafter clears for foreign countries, or proceeds to another place in the country without leaving the port, the residue of the provisions and other ship's stores may remain on board for use without payment of duty, provided that they do not exceed what the Customs officers deem justified by the length of the proposed journey and other circumstances. But if the vessel sails for another home port after loading goods in destination of the interior, duty must be paid on the residue, provided it cannot be considered. The same holds good when the crew is paid off, provided the residue be not under lock and seal of the Customs-house.

In regard to provisions on steamships plying between foreign and domestic ports, the rules here given are to be applied with such restrictions as the Customs Department may find necessary to prescribe for preventing possible abuse.

Coffin, tea, sugar, butter of all kinds, meat and bacon, other fresh meat in hermetically closed receptacles, hard bread, plums, rice, semolina and rice flour, salsicci, as well as oils for illuminating and lubricating purposes, withdrawn from the warehouses, may be delivered exempt from duty for use on board vessels proceeding to foreign countries or for the whale, walrus or seal fisheries in the South Sea or in the Arctic Sea, provided always that the Customs officers deem the quantity of such provisions suitable to the requirements of the crew. Other goods may, under like conditions, be delivered on board said vessels for the use of the crew, provided they be dealt with in the same manner as other unenumerated foreign goods, in accordance with § 43, letter c of the Customs Law, and subject to the master affirming in writing that the seals affixed will not be broken until the vessel has left the territorial waters of the country. However, spirits intended for consumption on board Norwegian vessels fishing in the Arctic Sea are not allowed delivery free of duty.

(d) Clothing and travelling effects belonging to passengers, in so far as the Customs officers may deem that their quality and quantity indicate that they are imported for personal use. When such effects are not brought by the passengers themselves they are only admitted free of duty when the Customs officers judge that they are imported for personal use and that they bear their cost having been used.

Clothing and personal effects which have belonged to Norwegian who died abroad, provided that it be proved that said articles have been used.

(e) Implements, carriage and riding equipments, household utensils, furniture and similar articles, when they bear trace of having been used and are imported for the account and use of persons who have resided abroad for at least one year and who have then returned and used them. Other similar effects may likewise be imported free of duty, if they bear testament to persons inhabiting the country.

Other articles having been used may also, with the authorisation of the Customs Administration, be imported free of duty or at a lower rate of duty than that established for goods in general.

(f) Samples, provided they do not appear to be intended for trade (see § 1).

(g) Packages, evidently of the ordinary kind, containing goods on condition that it be not expressly stipulated, at the time of clearance, that they are included in the weight of the goods or dutiable separately, also packages returned to the country after having served for the exportation of goods. Damage shall likewise be considered as packages.

Note.—Herring barrels shall not be entitled to free entry, even when used for packing re-exported goods.

(h) Donations and relief in kind intended for prisoners of war.

(i) The Customs Department may grant free entry to sculptures of any kind, provided to be of artistic value.

§ 3.—Imports from Sweden into Norway are governed by the following special rules:

1. In the conveyance by land between Sweden and Norway to the Eastern District of Vinger and to the Districts further north (except the Eastern District of Vinger) and to the Districts further south (except playing cards, which are subject to stamp and import duties), as well as brandy and spirits, including beverages prepared with alcohol, and wine,

2. Hay, straw, gypsum, fertilizers, and packages in which goods are being exported from the country; donations and relief in kind imported for war prisoners, on importation of these articles.

3. Travelling requisites belonging to and imported by passengers, ship provisions and other articles for use on board the vessel during its proposed voyage, such as coal on steamships, and fishing tackle.

4. Undecked vessels used by Norwegian fishermen in fishing abroad, both on exportation and re-importation.

5. Goods imported on the same voyage by the same vessels which exported them.

The foregoing exemptions shall not apply to barrels and cases for packing herrings.

6. Ores and opatite, on exportation by vessel, shall be liable to a duty (kron. 0.25) per tonne.

7. Foreign vessels and goods imported and exported on them shall be subject to either of higher dues than those imposed on Norwegian vessels and on goods imported or exported on them, unless the King allows the assessment of higher dues on goods or vessels of some foreign nation.

8. When foreign goods, which in accordance with special dispositions have paid no duty or a reduced duty, in certain Custom-houses, are carried over home ports, an import duty or the difference between the duty paid at the shipping port and in the port of arrival shall be collected.

If a product manufactured from foreign material at any place in Norway where imported, either exempt from duty or subject to a reduced duty, is carried to another home port where the material employed in its manufacture is subject to duty or to a higher rate of duty than has been ready paid, the product shall be liable at the port of arrival to the import duty there collected on the material from which it has been manufactured, subject to deduction of the duty which may have been paid at the port of entry.
